City-Welfare Program Rejected by Assembly

$10 Million Package Considered

MADISON (AP)—The Assembly rejected Gov. Warren P. Knowles' proposed $33 million urban-welfare program Wednesday night, and very nearly rejected a substitute package whose price tag had doubled to $10 million.

Assemblymen agreed to continue work today on the substitute measure.

It contains many of the items requested by Knowles last month as a supplement to the 1969-71 budget, but with an overall cost less than a third of the governor's request.

There were 34 amendments to the substitute package, and assemblymen turned down many of them.

One of them was a trial balloon to determine the Assembly's attitude toward the Tarr task force's recommendations to reshape formula for sharing tax revenues with municipalities and ease property tax burdens.

The Tarr plan, which got rough sledding in the Senate, could still come up in the Assembly as a bill of its own.

52-45 Vote
Assemblymen voted 52-45 to reject Knowles' $33 million package, and concentrate on the $4.9 million substitute.

They turned down even the substitute measure 52-45, then voted to reconsider it today.

The substitute originally included $3.2 million for the Marquette Medical School in Milwaukee, $4 million for language programs and teacher aides in Milwaukee, and other sums for housing and welfare.

An amendment to increase the state's welfare level to 138 per cent of the national average was defeated. The state's outlay level is 120 per cent under the 1969-71 budget.

An amendment proposing $18 million to augment police department budgets was defeated.

Assemblymen also eliminated part of the bill's proposal for restoring state aid to AFDC (aid to families with dependent children).

AFDC Items

The part deleted involves a proposed $250,000 for clothing and other items for AFDC children under 6 years of age.

The substitute bill called for financing through increases in liquor and beer taxes. Assemblymen eliminated a clause under which the first 10,000 barrels of beer would be exempt from the tax increase.

That left the matter with a proposed beer increase of $1 a barrel to twice the current tax rate. The liquor tax would rise to $2.55 a gallon from $2.25.

Assemblymen voted 69-29 against an amendment which would have provided about $28 million for higher school aids through an increase in the inheritance tax and an increase in the beer tax to $3 a barrel.

Assemblyman Frank Nikolay, D-Abbotsford, described the measure as being "in keeping with the philosophy of the Republican party: 'Pull yourself up by your bootstraps.' It just makes sure you'll be at rock bottom when you start pulling."

Assemblyman Kenneth Merkel, R-Brookfield, said the proposed inheritance tax increase would "fly in the face of the free enterprise system. It is confiscatory."

Sinatra Ignores New Jersey Call For His Arrest

FREEPORT, Bahamas (AP)—Frank Sinatra has arrived in the Bahamas for a stay, apparently not heeding an arrest warrant issued for him in an investigation of organized crime in New Jersey.

The warrant, enforceable only in New Jersey, was issued Tuesday at the request of the New Jersey State Investigation Commission.

Sinatra and his retinue arrived Tuesday night and took up residence in an 8-room suite at the Lucayan Beach Hotel. He went yachting Wednesday aboard a chartered boat, then gambled at several casinos.

Miller said he supported President Nixon's Vietnam policies but thought the moratorium "demonstrates the greatness of America."

The antiwar activity even extended to the World Series in New York, where the Mets beat the Baltimore Orioles after a dispute on whether the flag

Two Cosmonauts Return to Earth From Soyuz Test

MOSCOW (AP)—Soyuz 6 and the two cosmonauts aboard it returned safely to earth today after testing several types of experimental welding techniques in space, Radio Moscow announced.

The announcement said the first of the three spaceships sent up last weekend made a soft landing in a "preset area" at 12:52 p.m.—4:52 a.m. CDT—10 miles northwest of Karaganda.

The two cosmonauts "feel fine," the announcement said. The return to earth of Soyuz 6 left two manned spaceships and five cosmonauts still in orbit.

The welding experiment was the chief business announced so far for the troika flight. With it the Soviet spacemen sought to determine the best method of putting together the permanent space stations which the Soviets plan to assemble.

Early in the mass flight there had been speculation that two of the Soyuz spaceships would be joined together and left in orbit to become the world's first space platform. But prospects for this declined as the flight progressed, and the return of Soyuz 6 seemed a clear indication that construction of the space platform will wait for another flight.

"The mission of Soyuz has been successfully completed," Moscow Radio said.

The announcer reported that cosmonauts Georgy Shonin and Valery Kubasov were met by rescue teams as soon as they landed.

There was no indication when Soyuz 7 and Soyuz 8 would return to earth.

Left Saturday
Soyuz 6 blasted off last Saturday at 2:10 p.m. Moscow time. The flight lasted 4 days, 22 hours and 42 minutes.

The spaceship landed on the steppes of Kazakhstan about 340 miles from the launch site at Baikonur.

The welding was done in a depressurized compartment of the ship in conditions of high vacuum, Tass said.

It was the first time orbiting spacemen have attempted to weld metals together.

Other Ships
The other two orbiting spaceships and the five cosmonauts manning them took no part in the welding experiments.

Tass said Valery Kubasov, flight engineer of Soyuz 6, switched on the welding equipment after one compartment of the two-room craft was depressurized, creating conditions similar to those outside the spaceship.

The commander of the ship, Georgy Shonin, remained in the command chamber piloting the spacecraft.

There was no immediate word on the success of the tests, and the techniques employed were not described.

"This is a unique experiment," said Tass, "of great importance for science and technology in working out techniques for welding and assembly in space."

Work in U.S.
The 1969 Nobel Prize for physiology and medicine was awarded jointly today to German-born Max Delbrueck of the California Institute of Technology, Alfred D. Hershey of the Carnegie Institute, and Salvador E. Luria of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The American trio of bacteriologists were honored for their discoveries concerning the replication mechanism and the genetic structure of viruses, the faculty of the Caroline Institute said.

The Nobel Prize this year carries a record cash amount of $75,000.

Other Prizes
Money for the prizes comes from the will of Alfred Nobel, Swedish inventor of dynamite. Other prizes to come: for literature Oct. 23; for economics, a new award, Oct. 27; for physics and chemistry, Oct. 30. The Nobel Peace Prize award is made in Oslo.

This is the fourth consecutive year that the world's most coveted medical distinction has gone to the United States.

Delbrueck, 63, was born in Berlin, educated at Goettingen and went to the California Institute of Technology at Pasadena on a Rockefeller grant in 1937. He became professor of biology there in 1947.

Salvador Luria was born in Turin, Italy, in 1912. He went to the United States as a research assistant at Columbia University in New York in 1940 and has been professor of microbiology at MIT since 1959.

Born in Michigan
Alfred D. Hershey, 60, was born in Lansing, Mich., and went to the Carnegie Institution in 1950. He now heads its genetics department.

"The discoveries for which the award was given first of all imply a deeper insight into the nature of viruses and virus diseases. Indirectly they also bring

Protest Largest in U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

With parades, rallies, candlelight processions and church services, hundreds of thousands of Americans joined in the largest antiwar protest in America's history. Supporters of American policy on Vietnam also demonstrated publicly.

Every state had some form of protest Wednesday and more than one million people, most of ties centered on the moratorium slogan: "Bring home the troops. All the troops. Now!" Many protests included reading the names of war dead.

President Unaffected
When it was over, a spokesman for President Nixon said in Washington, "I don't think the President can be affected by a mass demonstration of any kind."

Herbert G. Klein, Nixon's director of communications, said Wednesday night, "It's also true and clear to the President that a vast majority of the American people are supporting his policy."

But a coordinator of the moratorium, Sam Brown, said in Washington, "If there is no change in Vietnam policy, if the President does not respond, there will be a second moratorium."

More Demonstrations
Leaders of the protest said they would continue "until the boys come home," with two days of demonstrations next month, three in December, four in January.

The large Eastern cities, traditionally the center of antiwar activity, had the largest turnout.

Mourning Period Starts

Assassin Murders Somalia President

MOGADISHU, Somalia (AP)—A five-day period of official mourning began today for assassinated President Abdirashid Ali Shermarke as authorities sought to determine the accused slayer's motives.

Authorities said Yusuf Ismail, the 22-year-old policeman ting out of his car. The 50-year-old Shermarke died instantly. His body was flown to Mogadishu, the capital, Wednesday night. Today, public offices and shops in the capital were shut down and flags flew at half-staff. Burial was planned for Monday.

Nicolino Mohamed, chief of cabinet in the president's office, said the country's leadership had automatically fallen upon the president of the national assembly, Sheikh Muktar Mohamed.

Somali Prime Minister Mohammed H. Ibrahim Egal was on his way back to Mogadishu today from the United States.

A curfew that went into effect after the assassination was lifted at 6 a.m. today.

Mohamed said no extraordinary measures were planned by the 9,000-man Somali army.

"There is no reason for alarm," he said.

He said the policeman's background was being investigated and that there was no indication yet whether the killing was politically motivated.

outs. Boston police estimated 90,000 persons gathered on the Common, while 22,000 assembled at the Washington Monument and New York City had three rallies of more than 10,000 each.

But the scope of the moratorium was reflected across the nation. For example, in Iowa about 11,000 persons protested in various locations; in the State of Washington, an estimated 20,000 took part; in Arkansas, about 4,000 rallied in Little Rock.

Americans abroad and foreign students demonstrated in London, Paris, Rome, Brussels, Vienna, Tokyo, Dublin, Copenhagen and Bogota, Colombia.

About 15 infantrymen fighting in South Vietnam wore black armbands to show their support for the protest.

Ailing POWs Won't be Freed
PARIS (AP)—The North Vietnamese told two American wives they won't release any American prisoners of war until all U.S. troops leave Vietnam, the wives said Wednesday night.

Sue Shuman and Martha Doss of Virginia Beach, Va., said the North Vietnamese advised them they could speed their husbands' release by demonstrating against the war.

Mrs. Doss and Mrs. Shuman, accompanied by the latter's mother-in-law, Mrs. B. C. Boeckeler, met for an hour and 15 minutes Wednesday with two members of North Vietnam's delegation to the Paris peace talks. They said they came away very disappointed.

"We wanted to obtain the release of all sick and wounded prisoners," Mrs. Shuman said, "but they told us we would have to wait until all the American troops are out of Vietnam and the war is over."

"We came here with fairly high hopes. We hoped to present the request for humanitarian reasons. They seemed to feel strongly that the prisoner thing is not humanitarian but political."

"Everytime we would bring up the humanitarian thing," Mrs. Doss said, "they would say if we wanted to get our husbands out, we would have to demonstrate."

"I would never demonstrate against my government," said Mrs. Shuman. "That would dishonor my husband."

Cmdr. Edwin Shuman and Lt. Cmdr. Dale Doss were shot down in North Vietnam and wounded March 17, 1968. Shuman was the pilot and Doss the navigator of a Navy A6 carrier plane.

The two women are returning home Friday.

Three other groups of American wives have visited the North Vietnamese in Paris—two from Texas and one from Oklahoma—but their husbands are listed as missing, and their first request was whether they are being held prisoner. The North Vietnamese told all of them they would ask Hanoi for information and let the women know what they found out.

The North Vietnamese told all of them they would ask Hanoi for information and let the women know what they found out.

The Pentagon on Oct. 1 reported 1,332 U.S. servicemen are missing or have been captured in Vietnam. Of these, 413 are known to be prisoners in the North, about 200 are missing in South Vietnam, and the Defense Department believes many of the rest are prisoners in the North.

North Vietnam has released nine American airmen, including three who were flown from Hanoi in August. In addition, 12 American military men and four civilians have been freed by the Viet Cong in the South.

The U.S. government has tried repeatedly to get lists of prisoners from the North Vietnamese but has been rebuffed in every attempt.

South Vietnamese Casualties Climb As U.S. Toll Falls

82 Americans, 384 Saigon Troops Killed During Last Week's Battles

SAIGON (AP) — The total of American battlefield deaths in Vietnam last week remained near the lowest levels of the past three years, and enemy losses fell to their lowest point in a year. But South Vietnamese casualties climbed sharply.

The allied commands reported 82 Americans, 384 troops of the Saigon government and 1,687 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese were killed in action. Another 573 Americans and 1,000 South Vietnamese troops were reported wounded.

It was the third successive week that the total of American dead was less than 100. The total the week before was 64, the lowest in nearly three years, while government casualties that week were 209 killed and 681 wounded.

3 Month Trend

The weekly casualty reports reflected a trend in the past 3½ months of generally decreasing American battlefield deaths, while the total of South Vietnamese dead has outnumbered the Americans each week for the past five months.

U.S. spokesmen said this shows that South Vietnamese regulars and militiamen are taking over more of the fighting.

"The South Vietnamese are generally getting into the act," said one officer. "They are pursuing the enemy and taking on a good bit of the fighting."

The weekly casualty report raised the reported total of American battlefield deaths to 38,969 since Jan. 1961, and the total wounded to 254,847. The enemy dead reported in that period total 560,908.

The allied communiques to-day again reported only light, scattered action, most of it in the Mekong Delta south of Saigon and along the infiltration corridors running south from the Cambodian border toward Saigon.

South Vietnamese headquarters said government infantrymen and marines killed 38 enemy soldiers and smashed what appeared to be a Viet Cong propaganda center in three clashes in the delta. A spokesman said there were no government casualties in two of the fights and only light losses in the third. One government unit captured a television set, three amplifiers, a microphone, six loudspeakers, three reels of film and 11 sets of documents.

Bomber Runs

U.S. fighter-bombers killed 25 enemy soldiers and destroyed 19 bunkers in a strike 34 miles northwest of Saigon U.S. headquarters said.

American B52 bombers flew four missions overnight—two against North Vietnamese bases half a mile south of the demilitarized zone; the other two against enemy bases 28 miles northeast and 73 miles north of Saigon.

The U.S. Command reported 20 enemy rocket and mortar attacks, eight of which caused casualties or damage. Three Americans were reported killed and 10 wounded

Resort Area

Ten of the 100-pound rockets crashed into the U.S. air base and an Alaskan barge company dock area at the usually peaceful resort city of Vung Tau, 43 miles southeast of Saigon. One U.S. soldier and one Vietnamese civilian were killed, four American soldiers were wounded, and damage to the base and the dock area were light, the U.S. Command said.

In Moscow, North Vietnam and the Soviet Union signed another military and economic aid agreement but Tass, the Soviet news agency, did not disclose the amount. Previously Washington has estimated Soviet aid to Hanoi at more than a billion dollars a year.

The aid agreement grants "new long term credits" and requires Moscow to supply Hanoi "considerable quantities" of arms, ammunition, other military equipment, food, oil, metals, cloth, medicine and other supplies, Tass said.

2 Spacemen From U.S.S.R. To Visit U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Russian cosmonauts will begin a two-week visit to the United States Monday as guests of American astronauts, and will tour from coast to coast.

Astronaut Frank Borman made the announcement today through headquarters of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. The announcement said Borman invited the cosmonauts when he was in the Soviet Union in July.

Borman was commander of the Apollo 8 mission, the first manned flight around the moon.

Both the Soviet visitors are veterans of space flight.

They are Maj. Gen. Georgiy Beregovoy, who flew in the Soyuz 3 spacecraft in October last year, and Konstantin Feoktistov, the scientist member of the three-man Voshkod space flight in October 1964.

They are to arrive in New York Monday afternoon for a tour the details of which are still being arranged. NASA said, however, they are expected to visit both the east and west coasts, the Manned Spacecraft Center in Houston, and the Cape Kennedy, Fla., launching facility.

Beregovoy will be accompanied by his wife and son. Feoktistov is traveling without his family.

The Houston Post, which first reported the visit, said it was told that Borman will be the official escort for the cosmonauts.

should be flown at full-staff or half-staff.

Lindsay Order

Mayor John V. Lindsay had ordered flags on all city buildings set at half-staff and City Hall draped in purple bunting to commemorate America's Vietnam war casualties.

Shea Stadium, the site of the game, is owned by the city. Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn said he would comply with the mayor's request, but the military honor guard refused to participate if the flag were not displayed at the top of the pole, and Lindsay and Kuhn relented.

Lindsay is seeking re-election as a candidate of the Liberal and Independent parties after losing the Republican primary to state Sen. John J. Marchi, a supporter of Nixon's Vietnam policy.

Besides speaking at several antiwar rallies, Lindsay visited a Naval hospital in Queens and shook hands with 100 wounded men.

Maddox's Flag

In Atlanta, Ga., Mayor Ivan Allen Jr. ordered American flags lowered to half-staff in memory of war dead. But state buildings, presided over by Gov. Lester G. Maddox, flew flags at full-staff and Maddox hung a flag from his car's radio antenna.

In Newark, N.J., a 5-year-old boy threw an American flag on a fire at the urging of two students, during a demonstration at Rutgers University. Police were investigating.

Boy Scouts

A local club of Vietnam veterans in Spearfish, S.D. hired a plane and showered 2,000 demonstrating students with 5,000 leaflets that said: "America—Love it or leave it."

Boy Scouts in Franklin, Ky., went about sticking small flags on parking meters to proclaim "faith in the American system of government."

In East Meadow, N.Y., more than 15,000 persons turned out to hear W. Averell Harriman in what police said was the largest peace protest ever held on Long Island.

"I've been working for peace for four years," Harriman, former chief U.S. negotiator at the Paris peace talks said. "Now you've started something and nobody can stop you... President Nixon said he wouldn't pay attention to your voices. Now he's going to have to pay attention."

New York March

In New York City, about 10,000 people marched holding candles through midtown Manhattan to hold a service in front of St. Patrick's Cathedral. They left behind a litter squad to clean up their leaflets in Bryant Park, the starting point.

More than 22,000 persons massed near the Washington Monument to hear Coretta Scott King, widow of Martin Luther King Jr., say, "While we spend billions of dollars for destruction in Vietnam we refuse to recognize the necessity for life at home."

Then, bathed in candlelight, they marched to the White House and silently encircled it. Some of them later returned to the monument and cleaned up the grounds.

Eventual Influence of Moratorium On Country Cannot be Predicted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Moratorium was all its designers had hoped it to be, it was the fulfillment of a dream, and yet the man who speaks for Richard Nixon said:

"I don't think the President can be affected by a mass demonstration of any kind."

By the thousands, they had ringed the White House with their candlelight, silently and peaceably demanding an end right now to the war that had killed nearly 40,000 of their contemporaries.

And Herbert G. Klein, President Nixon's director of communications, said amicably:

"It's also true and clear to the President that a vast majority of the American people are supporting his policy."

Sam Brown

Jubilant, 26-year-old Sam Brown, who had conceived Vietnam Moratorium Day in the first place, said, "If there's no change in the Vietnam policy, if the President does not respond, there will be a second moratorium in November."

But after the marchers had gone home, Herb Klein said:

"If the President surrenders himself to the point where he responds to demonstrations, then he's not the President the people elected."

It is too early to assess the true significance of the unprecedented moratorium that brought hundreds of thousands of Americans out against the war—perhaps, as Sam Brown said, "giving hope to the people that they can work for change within the democratic system... without violence."

No Concession

What is clear is that Nixon has not, this morning after, given any indication of doing what the moratorium slogan demanded: "Bring home the troops. All the troops. Now."

It is equally clear that many who had condemned the moratorium from the beginning misjudged their people when they prophesied that such a massive, widespread outpouring of feeling could only result in violence.

There was no serious violence on Wednesday, the 15th of October—none, at least, much more significant than a brief scuffle in front of the White House during the cool fall afternoon.

The young people even returned wearily to the Washington Monument grounds late at night to police the rubble 35,000 souls had left.

At the very least, a sizeable chunk of America got a sizeable lump of emotion out of its system.

Future Days

That raised the question both- ering some of the moratorium strategists: Was so much of the feeling purged that the plans for two similar days in November, three in December, might run into a wall of apathy or frustration on the part of the October activists?

"I think it's clear," Brown said, "that people simply can't grow weary and stay at home."

Klein said of the demonstrators, "I didn't note any of them accusing the President of not wanting an end to the war. The difference is as to when you get out or what the tactics may be. But the goal is the same—to win the peace and win it fairly."

He carefully made the distinction between the fun of a football game and the tragedy of a war, but went on, "The quarter-back is the one who has to call the signal, no matter what the crowds are shouting."

Support Policy

Reminded of Brown's promise of continued demonstrations if Nixon fails to respond to this one, Klein said, "It would be helpful to us if more people would support his policy. The demonstrations certainly aren't going to help our side."

"They were demonstrating to show their dissent, and also a kind of antiestablishment feeling."

But Klein disagreed with Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's descriptions of the demonstrators as "pushy youngsters and middle-aged malcontents."

"These are intelligent young people," the communications director said, "although there were some misfits among them. Our hope is that the next time they demonstrate they would do so in a way that would help us—for example, demonstrating to bring the prisoners home from North Vietnam."

Septuagenarian W. Averell Harriman, who represented the Johnson administration at the still-deadlocked Paris peace talks, said he thought the moratorium had helped "reduce the generation gap we hear so much about." It might well have done that. Want had started out months ago to be a campus protest became a movement that enveloped old and young, rich and poor, Republicans and Democrats, businessmen and unemployment-drawers.

Solo Effort Strategic Victory Claimed by Laos

SAM THONG, Laos (AP) — Laoian forces took the strategic Plain of Jars from the hands of the pro-Communist Pathet Lao with no help from any U.S. military personnel, the area commander said today.

Like Prince Souvanna Phouma, Laos' premier, Maj. Gen. Vang Pao denied in an interview in his mountain headquarters here that Americans are helping Laoian forces in the civil war.

But Vang Pao produced five captured prisoners who were identified as North Vietnamese to support the Laoian claim that North Vietnamese forces are in Laos fighting at the side of the Pathet Lao.

Want Neutrality

Speaking of reports that Americans are aiding his forces, Vang Pao said: "We don't want foreigners. We want to be purely neutral."

U.S. jets streaked over the headquarters 100 miles north of Vientiane, the capital, as he spoke. But Vang Pao denied they were used on bombing missions.

"We use only our own T28s," he said T28s are U.S.-made jet training planes that have been converted into fight-bombers.

"The U.S. planes fly over sometimes but only on reconnaissance," the commander added "I have never seen a B52 I would like to."

Based in Thailand

B52s, the eight-jet bombers, are used by the U.S. Air Force in Vietnam. Some are based in nearby Thailand.

Vang Pao, who is 40 and has been a soldier for 24 years, claimed that his troops have routed enemy forces.

"I control almost all of the Plain of Jars," he said.

He contended that his 10,000-man force of Meo tribesmen and regular Laoian infantry had inflicted heavy casualties on Pathet Lao and North Vietnamese forces.

"They now have only 7,000 men—before they had 25,000," he said.

He claimed that in the offensive which began four months ago, his troops had captured or destroyed 6,000 guns, 20 tanks, 50 anti-aircraft guns, 200 trucks and 6,000 tons of ammunition.

Not a Politician

Asked about apprehension in the United States that Americans are involved in Laos, Vang Pao said: "Don't ask me, go to Vientiane and ask the politicians. I am not a politician."

Vang Pao even denied that Americans are involved as advisers in a passive or active role in the second military region, which he commands.

Vang Pao said there are only these Americans in his region: Four U.S. aid men overseeing relief supplies to refugees, one military attaché and a surgeon at the Sam Thong Hospital.

He admitted, however, that a secret base existed at Long Chien, 25 miles from here, but he would not give details of activities there.

Sources in Vientiane have said a large group of U.S. military advisers here working at Long Chien which was Vang Pao's operational headquarters. "I can swear by Lord Buddha there are no Americans in Long Chien," he said.

Congress Dawdles on Draft Reform

President Nixon recently has criticized Congress slowness to put into effect legislative programs he has proposed, or at the least to consider them. Certainly as far as the Selective Service System is concerned, the President has a point.

In recent weeks President Nixon has made almost startling changes in the draft by executive order. He announced the cancellation of all draft calls for November and December and a cutback for October.

More recently he said that graduate students who were doing satisfactory academic work would at least be able to finish out the year, rather than only the term for which they were enrolled.

And then he announced that Selective Service Director, General Hershey, would be replaced next February.

While it seems likely that all these moves were in part aimed at defusing the growing opposition to the war and in particular the moratorium of Oct. 15, President Nixon some five months ago suggested draft reform ideas to Congress. Congress apparently hasn't even bothered to study the proposals, which include a lottery system and the limitation of draft eligibility to only one year, which would also mean the drafting of younger men.

The Democratic leaders of various committees in Congress obviously are using the draft for political purposes. They may also argue that the middle of a war — even an undeclared one — is no time to make sweeping changes. But their failures to act on the bills introduced some time ago to implement the President's suggestions are not likely to embarrass the President. If necessary he can continue to revise draft procedures, by executive order and he has said that he will.

Unfortunately it appears that some of the changes the President has made were done hastily, without a carefully thought out policy or enough attention paid to whether new inequities would result. Permitting graduate students to stay in school a year—announced after the school year began — is hardly fair to those prospective graduate students who were inducted last summer, or who believe that attendance for one term was hardly worth it. We have already commented on the unfortunate timing of the Hershey retirement, which seems to us more likely to encourage dissent and demonstrations as a proven means of getting action, rather than to dissuade them.

But the failure to overhaul the draft is primarily a Congressional failure and one that has extended over a couple of decades, time enough certainly to make long overdue changes.

State Securities Unit a Tight Ship

The state Department of Securities has long been one of the more obscure, although highly important, of the regulatory agencies of the state government.

The stock market today has become a democratic institution, Thomas Nelson, head of the department, points out with more men and women of modest means interesting themselves in securities investments than ever before in the history of the country. We are truly moving toward a people's capitalism, as Mr. Nelson suggests. More than half a million Wisconsin residents are now investors in stocks.

His calculation is probably a conservative one, remembering that there are tens of thousands of persons who are involved in Wall Street trading indirectly, as members of pension funds and similar programs in which the ultimate annuities or benefits depend upon the success of the investments made by the professional fund managers.

All of which leads us to second Mr. Nelson's thesis — that strict, constant and honest regulation of securities trading by the state as a complement to the work of the federal Securities and Exchange Commission has more direct importance to the welfare of ordinary citizens than ever before.

Mr. Nelson, an appointee of Gov. Knowles, has held his office for a comparatively short time, about two years. But he came to it with professional experience in a Milwaukee brokerage firm, which was a fortunate circumstance.

For he has been able to perform his duties with a knowledgeable firmness that this agency has not always displayed during its history.

In fact, in our own observation of the work of the securities commissioner and his staff, it is rapidly earning the reputation of being one of the most vigilant and stern and responsive of the many regulatory arms within the state government. Quite obviously, his staff is responding to the decisive attitude of the commissioner about the important role of the department and the significant scope of the duties of its officers and employees.

We are impressed by Commissioner Nelson's performance, and assert the face without hesitation. This is not to disparage to any degree the record of the other public protection agencies in the state government, but to express gratification that the head of the securities department has grasped his reins so firmly and so quickly.

The number of our Wisconsin friends and neighbors benefitting from the work of the securities department has multiplied ten-fold and almost surely will continue to grow as more of them become investors in registered securities.

Dictatorship Spurs 'Brain Drain'

The Chinese Nationalist Government of Taiwan is trying to find a way to reverse what is probably the highest percentage of "brain-drain" in the world.

Despite stiff regulations concerning study abroad, Taiwan suffers from the fact that a whopping 97 per cent of the Chinese students who leave their homeland for higher degrees never come home again. This is particularly costly for underdeveloped nations which desperately need the expertise of the highly educated. And while Taiwan has progressed well economically, its standards of living are still pretty low.

According to an article in Scientific Research magazine, the Nationalists are planning a professorial exchange program between the United States and two research centers to be established on Taiwan to complement the current five centers which also serve as graduate schools. American professors of Chinese origin in particular will be encouraged to come to Taiwan for from six months to a year.

Such programs have merit. A different one, under the auspices of the United States Department of State and in cooperation with the government on Taiwan provides for American businessmen and industrialists to come to Taiwan to instruct local manufacturers and others in procedures that have worked so well in the United States.

However, the major reason why Chinese scholars from Taiwan prefer not to go home again is the political, rather than the economic, atmosphere. Despite some relaxations and certainly far more cooperation than previously by the native Taiwanese, the Chinese Nationalists' dictatorial powers on Taiwan are often anathema to those in the academic world and to scientists.

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for Oct. 2, 1869

Editor Sam Ryan, of the Appleton Crescent, is one of the most indefatigable and hardest workers of the editorial fraternity in the state. Aside from his duties as county judge, and a zealous and careful attention to editorial labor, he is devoting all the time possible to the promotion of the interest of Odd Fellowship, in his capacity of Grand Master of the State. His labors in this connection preclude him from holding any position in or working at present for the Good Templars organization in which he formerly did good service. It is in a large measure owing to his efforts that Odd Fellowship is so rapidly increasing and prospering in Wisconsin. Visitation of lodges must consume one-third of his time, and all this added to other duties makes him a hard worked man. He seems to stand the pressure. — Green Bay Gazette.

Criticisms of Nixon Conjured Up By Liberals Part of Slick Scheme

BY WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY, Jr.
The march of anti-Nixonism during the past fortnight is a wonder to behold. No doubt it is in part spontaneous. But it is also in part one of the slickest operations since 1964 when, over a period of weeks, the general public was gradually assured that Barry Goldwater desired to become deal was apparently innocuous and innocent" — note that we now have two "apparentlys" — Haynsworth "apparently" didn't know Baker, and the deal was "apparently" okay. . . but Baker's name is enough to frighten most politicians. To some Republicans, Haynsworth's questionable judgment, combined with Bobby Baker, was too much.

Now one remembers from the dark past what McCarthyism was supposed to be, and wondered how the press would have handled the accused if the whole of the case against him had reduced to, let us say, his having invested in a company in which Alger Hiss had also invested. I can just see Edward R. Murrow's handling of Senator McCarthy's saying, "Apparently the accused didn't know Alger Hiss. . . ."

And then of course Richard Nixon is being blamed for the Green Beret mess, when all that Richard Nixon did was approve the CIA's refusal to permit its agents to testify on the perfectly straightforward grounds that CIA agents simply do not take the stand. One does not recall any national ethical uproar when Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy, backed by the president, declined at the last minute to prosecute two espionage agents, and off they toddled to Russia, wondering perhaps whether liberty in Russia was better or worse than imprisonment in the United States. Still, the point stands that there was very little public criticism.

Concerning the execution itself of a double agent, Americans have been trained to believe that it is a very good thing. My own most recent instruction in the ethics of handling double agents was by Richard Burton, who in the film "Where Eagles Dare" instructed the double agent to throw himself out of the airplane over the Alps, which he forthwith did, as thousands cheered. Perhaps the difference is that the enemy was the Nazis, not the Communists.

And, of course, there is Vietnam. The demonstrations on Wednesday documented the liberals' mutinous restiveness. No, they did not clamor to Stop the Bombing and Go to the Negotiating Table. We did that and it didn't work, and none of the demonstrators called to our attention that it didn't work. Interestingly enough, they accused Richard Nixon of stubbornness, not the Communist imperialists.

Grass Huts Make Money as Export

MBABANE, Swaziland (AP) — Swaziland's latest export commodity is grass huts. The traditional beehive-shaped huts have caught on with tourists from neighboring white-ruled South Africa. Turned out by a team of 25 African hut-makers here at Rands 180 ($252) a throw, the huts are considered just the thing for swimming pool change rooms or garden shelters in Johannesburg's upper-class suburbs.

Finance Director Lauded for Withholding Welfare Check

Editor, Post-Crescent:

It would like to commend Mr. Champion, our finance director, for the good judgment he showed in withholding a $140 welfare rental bill. There surely is no need for welfare people to reside in the high rent district. I, for one, am glad that some one in city hall is watching the taxpayers purse strings.

In a recent national survey I read that three out of five married women between the ages of 21 and 45 are employed fulltime. These welfare mothers could find work and hire baby-sitters like every other family that has to have two wage earners to make a living and not have to ask for handouts.

Merton Ehrlicke would do well to get out of his office and investigate the recipients of welfare programs. How many mothers are living with boyfriends? How many own cars? Who is watching the children while the mothers are visiting our local taverns?

I am in favor of welfare to those who deserve it, but not those who abuse it.

'Independents' Who Can't Live by Party Rule Bound to Lose

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — Assemblyman Jerry Wing of suburban Milwaukee wants to march to a different drummer.

Having put his name on the ballot as a Republican in the elections just about a year ago and having now served in Madison for seven or eight months, he does not like what he has seen and has decided to expunge his partisan designation in favor of the label "independent." Thus, he is the second "defector" in the Legislature in as many terms.

Two years ago, Assemblyman Milton McDougal of Oconto Falls decided after his election as a Democrat that he would prefer the label of Republican and he was re-elected.

These are minor incidents in the politics of the state and the historian of the future is not likely to give them more than a passing glance.

But they serve usefully to office against partisan competition without being listed on a party ticket and, in virtually every case, it has been through some fluke. Some degree of self-confidence, even vanity, being one of the essential personality traits of the politician, some of them find that fact hard to believe when they are denied a party nomination and are tempted to run "independent" part of the in lonely isolation on the "independent" part of the ballot.

I remember an instance, in my home county, when a businessman of some stature decided to try to realize a lifelong ambition to be elected sheriff. He ran on a party ticket for a nomination and was defeated. Unable or unwilling to believe that the voters knew what they were doing, he insisted on running as an independent. Happening to have a long acquaintance with him, and being consulted by him about his prospects, I told him flatly that he would be defeated again. Irritated, he insisted on a sizeable wager. To his credit, his check payable to me was in the mail on the day after the votes were counted.

DISCIPLINE NEEDED

Wing, who has had very little previous political experience, was restless under the discipline of the Republican Assembly caucus, which is perhaps more assertive this year because of the narrow margin of Republican control of the lower house. Yet, it is easily demonstrated that political discipline in the Wisconsin Legislature is far less demanding, considering the history of the institution as a whole, than in many of the other states of the country.

But Wing could not be expected to know that or to recognize that, when he chose the Republican ballot as his preference and asked for the support of the Republican campaign organization, he owed some implicit loyalty to its goals, principles and purposes.

Among political defectors, an even more difficult experience is the lot of those who occasionally decide they want to change parties, from Democrat to Republican, for example. Occasionally minor politicians manage it. But it tends to be an experience less than satisfying, notwithstanding. As in other varieties of apostasy, the man who changes sides never quite acquires the trust of his new associates, while he must live with the resentment of those he has turned against.

Thoughts at Large Occupy Harris Today

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Thoughts At Large:

Some consequences of the modern population boom are: that your vote today is worth only 1 per cent of your grandfather's, that more illiterates are alive than ever before and that more people think the earth is flat than when Columbus discovered it wasn't.

starch, which are the essential fuels for our vitality, and which we cannot make for ourselves; and the brain of an Einstein is dependent upon a blade of grain.

Speaking of our "conquest" of nature, this is largely a myth. As a scientist recently put it: "Even the Eskimos, who appear so well adapted to the Arctic winter, in reality

There are almost a dozen nations in the world with a better infant mortality rate than the U. S., which is the most prosperous; it is scarcely a cause for national rejoicing that we rank just ahead of India and some African nations.

We speak of "peaceful research" as opposed to "war research," but there is no realistic division between the two. For example the increasing commercial exploitation of the ocean-beds, as a possible new source of food and treasure, will obviously increase the importance of submarine warfare.

One of the large motor companies has devised a "highway systems" research car that tests, evaluates and qualifies a driver, and records his physiological and mechanical reactions for computer analysis. How many more decades of highway slaughter will we see before such a car is used in all communities for granting and renewing drivers' licenses?

Man looks upon himself as the "conqueror" of the world. But in actuality all animals — including us — are parasitic on plants, for using sun and earth, plants build sugar and cannot long resist intense cold; sheltered in their igloos, or clothed in their parkas, they live almost a tropical life!"

All institutions tend toward serving their own ends rather than the human ends of the persons who compose them. This is as much true of religious institutions as of any others, and explains why church organizations eventually debase or dehumanize the spiritual aims of their founders, and must be perpetually renewed by creative reform.

The relativity of standards is neatly expressed by the actress I heard about who visited a marriage counselor and was asked if she had been faithful to her husband. "Oh, yes," she nodded gravely, "I've been faithful lots of times."

Courts Mete Out Unequal Justice

Editor, Post-Crescent:

This letter is about the concern for justice shown in our local courts and refers specifically to the two news items printed in The Post-Crescent Monday, Oct. 6.

One item was about a working widow and mother of eight children who took a minor item from one of the supermarkets in a local shopping center. This lady was given a choice of 12 days in jail or a $50 fine. The young widow was listed as an out-of-state resident, which I feel sure must have influenced the judge when sentence was passed. It was not stated in The Post-Crescent that this widow lady was on welfare, so it has to be assumed by the reader that she is not.

The other item of news refers to a 16-year-old youth from the fair city of Appleton, who is not named, as prescribed by our outdated state law which is supposedly designed to protect the juvenile.

Mississippi Dixiecrats Snuggle Up to Nixon

Desegregation Slowdown Catapults President Past Wallace in Deep South Popularity Poll

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK
JACKSON, Miss. — Cautious but unmistakable gestures of friendship by the Mississippi Dixiecrat establishment toward President Nixon are typified by some extraordinary ticket purchases for next Monday night's Republican fund-raising dinner in Jackson to be addressed by Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

One high state official close to Dixiecrat Gov. John Bell Williams has secretly pledged to buy an entire table (price tag: $1,000) for the Agnew dinner. The man responsible for planning advertising in Williams' 1967 campaign also has pledged a $1,000 table. Several figures close to the Governor are buying tickets for themselves and their wives at $100 apiece.

This represents a spectacularly quick turnabout by Mississippi's regular Democrats, the state's overwhelmingly dominant power, from George Wallace to Richard M. Nixon. Nor is this necessarily a transitory development. Younger Dixiecrat politicians view a Mississippi polarized between black Democrats and white Republicans with Wallaceism fading away rapidly.

Thus, Atty. Gen. John Mitchell's grand design of a Republican majority combining the Wallace and Nixon voters of 1968 may not be so fanciful as it once seemed. In nine months as President, Mr. Nixon has gone far toward winning over the Deep South without offending the rest of the country.

No Public Alignment

For the foreseeable future, the Dixiecrats will maintain a public posture aligned nationally with neither Democrats nor Republicans. In private, however, key political figures are ecstatic about Nixon and disenchanted with Wallace. Plans by Wallace to challenge Gov. Albert Brewer of Alabama, his onetime protégé, for Governor in 1970 are not the way the Mississippi regulars play the game.

Because a few fiery speeches by Wallace down in the piney woods could quickly fire up the Mississippi rednecks, Dixiecrat politicians shrink from taking him on. But in Wallace's absence, they believe Nixon — who got only 13.5 per cent of the state vote while running a poor third in 1968 — actually could nose out Wallace today.

Gulf Coast. But the adulation accorded him then was preceded by a solid groundwork of conduct in Washington ingratiating to the Deep South. The Administration's delay in forced integration of school districts particularly convinced Mississippians that, for once, they had a friend in the White House.

Won't Blame Nixon

Contrary to our column from Washington several weeks ago, Mississippi does not confuse desegregation efforts activities by middle-echelon officials in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) with Nixon's more friendly policies. Even when inevitable desegregation is forced here, it is probable that nameless HEW bureaucrats—not Nixon—will be blamed. For implanting that impression, Republican State Chairman Clarke Reed gets much credit.

Indeed, the hard-driving Reed's fingerprints are found all over the Nixon boom here. Commuting to Washington much of this year, Reed nagged the White House into leniency on racial questions. Nixon agreed to visit the Gulf Coast only after incessant prodding by Reed.

Where Reed has failed is in attempting to engineer a crossover of prominent Dixiecrats into the Republican party comparable to the 1964 South Carolina coup led by Sen. Strom Thurmond. Sporadic negotiations with Gov. Williams have broken down. Republicans have more hope for Lt. Gov. Charles Sullivan, front-runner to be the next Governor. But Sullivan has been playing footsie with the Republicans for years without consummation.

Poses Barrier

That poses a barrier for Dixiecrats such as one rising politician who told us: "I'd like to run as a Republican — if I was sure it wouldn't hurt me." How could he be sure of that? Only if a John Bell Williams or a Charles Sullivan leads the pilgrimage to the GOP.

Yet, time is on the side of the Republicans because politics here is so polarized along racial lines. The Democratic faction allied with the national party is now controlled by Negroes with the handful of liberal whites stripped of authority. Even moderate Democrats admit they eventually may be forced into the Republican party as the only haven for white office-seekers in Mississippi.

This gives Nixon pragmatic reasons for continuing his present sluggish enforcement of integration and ambivalent policy declarations. If he can improve himself in the Deep South so quickly without an overt segregationist line, his possibilities here are tempting. Indeed, political trends in Mississippi so far constitute a validation of John Mitchell's grand design.

Beginning at 12:01 A.M. Sunday morning, October 19th, it will be necessary to dial all seven digits of the telephone number on all local calls.

After that time, if you dial only the last five digits (as you now do) your call can not be completed. This change is necessary because we are expanding facilities in this area to meet the need for more and newer kinds of telephone service.

Conversion to seven-digit dialing is a prerequisite to improved and expanded facilities. This new dialing method is already in use in most large cities.

Help your finger remember.

Beginning at 12:01 A.M. Sunday, October 19th, dialing seven digits on all local calls is "in." (All other calling remains the same.)

Buckley Urges Lorge to Delay Tarr Bill Vote

Mayor Wants Action Held for Revenue Analysis of Plan

In a telegram to State Sen. Gerald Lorge, R-Bear Creek, Appleton Mayor George Buckley has joined an Alliance of Cities effort to turn the legislative tide in favor of the Tarr Task Force tax redistribution bill.

Buckley's telegram urges Lorge to vote "to hold over action on the Tarr proposals until Department of Revenue figures are available next week."

The state revenue office has been preparing a computer analysis of the effects of the Tarr plan for changing the formula by which state-collected taxes are spread among local governments.

"Approximately 70 per cent of your district would benefit if you eventually support said proposals," the Buckley telegram to Lorge continues. Lorge represents Outagamie and Waupaca counties.

Lorge was among senators voting to kill the Tarr plan on Tuesday, an action the Senate reversed with a vote to reconsider the bill.

The 16-city Alliance, of which Appleton is a member, believes that the department of revenue analysis might persuade some senators with urban areas in their districts to switch to favor the bill.

James A. McCann, an alderman from Milwaukee where much of the push behind both the Alliance and the Tarr proposals has originated, was quoted Wednesday as saying 57.4 per cent of Wisconsin taxpayers would benefit from the proposals.

"If we could make the information we have on the bill available to everyone throughout the state, the legislature would have to pass it on logic alone," said McCann.

Former Head of Chamber Dies At New London

NEW LONDON — A former Chamber of Commerce president, Gordon B. Meiklejohn Sr., 76, 408 W. Law St., died here today.

Meiklejohn, a native of New London, operated a tavern and restaurant here for 49 years.

He was a life member of the Appleton Elks Lodge 337, a charter member of the New London Golf Club and a former member of the New London Rotary Club.

Survivors are his widow, a son, a daughter, a brother, seven grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Visitation will be after 2 p.m. Sunday until funeral services at 1:30 p.m. Monday at the Cline and Hanson Funeral Home, New London. Burial will be in Floral Hill Cemetery.

Airman 1. C. Thomas G. Werner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clement Werner, 23 Fairway Court, is on temporary duty with the 4133rd Bomb Wing at a forward base in the Western Pacific. Werner, a security policeman, supports B-52 Stratofortress bombing missions against enemy targets over South Vietnam. He is a graduate of Appleton High School-West.

Spec. 4 Roger J. Blink, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald E. Blink, 1600 W. Glendale Ave., has been awarded the Army Commendation Medal while serving with the 359th Transportation Company near Pleiku, Vietnam. The 21-year-old soldier graduated from Xavier High School in 1966.

Army Pfc. Dale E. Ahrens, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Derald H. Ahrens, 535 N. Meade St., is serving with the Americal Division in Vietnam as an infantryman.

Airman Patrick R. McPhail, a 1969 graduate of Kaukauna High School, and son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald W. McPhail, 101 E. 17th St., Kaukauna, has been assigned to Sheppard AFB, Tex., for advanced training in aircraft maintenance.

Hunter Suffers Minor Wounds

Michael A. Delrow, 16, 6 Tayco St., Menasha, suffered superficial gunshot wounds to his right side in a hunting accident about 2 p.m. Wednesday south of Shiocton.

Neenah police said Delrow went to Theda Clark Hospital about 6 p.m. after the wound began bothering him.

Delrow told police he was hunting with three companions and was standing near a pole when he heard a shot, then felt a pain in his right side. He believes the bullet glanced off the pole and struck him.

Police said he had two small puncture wounds in his right side near his chest.

Receiving the awards will be: Emery Cumming, Price County; Glenn French, Marinette County; Ray Habermann, Manitowoc County; Norman Luedtke, Eau Claire County; Vincent Proska, Racine County; Clifford Rierison, Adams County; John Fekete, Waukesha County; Anthony Gruszynski, Marinette County; Carl Kieson, Milwaukee County; Arnold Panzer, Wood County; Roy Raechke, Pierce County; and Herbert Swan, Dane County.

Awards will be made at the Friday night banquet which will close the two-day session.

Fund Drive for Youth Center to Be Held Sunday

KAUKAUNA — The annual Youth Center fund drive, normally held in January, is scheduled this weekend to avoid inclement January weather.

Envelopes are being distributed throughout the city and will be picked up by student workers Sunday afternoon. The city has been divided into 22 districts for the drive, two student volunteers handling collections in each district.

The Youth Center operates at the high school, is open to all students of the district and has activities three nights a week. Officers elected this week include Dan Hoehne, president; Joyce Van Dyn Hoven, vice president, and Sally Stuyvenberg, secretary.

Kimberly Youth Injures Legs in Car-Bike Mishap

KIMBERLY — Mark Vandenberg, 9, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Vandenberg, 122 W.

Receiving Stolen Property Charge Denied by Youth

Peter Schilling, 18, 205 1/2 W. College Ave., will stand trial in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 Nov. 4 on a charge of receiving and concealing stolen property.

Schilling pleaded innocent Wednesday to the charge brought following investigation by Appleton detectives. He is free on $100 bond.

Authorities allege he concealed a pair of boots and shirts, taken in a burglary at Jack's Shoes, 339 W. College Ave., and cigarettes stolen in a burglary at the Snack Drive-In, 2106 S. Oneida St.

An Appleton man involved in those burglaries recently was sentenced to jail for one year.

Girl's Head Bumped When Car Is Struck

Patricia Giesse, 18, route 5, Appleton, suffered a bump on the head when the car she was in was struck from behind at Outagamie County trunks E and C, seven miles north of Appleton, about 5:40 p.m. Wednesday.

County police said she was in a car driven by Howard Danke, 19, route 1, Fremont, which was eastbound on E, turning left onto C, when it was struck in the rear by an auto driven by Wesley M. Newhouse, 39, route 1, Kaukauna.

Damage to the two vehicles totaled $700.

First St., complained of pain in both legs after he was knocked from the bicycle he was riding about 3:50 p.m. Tuesday. His parents were advised to take the boy to a doctor.

According to police, a truck driven by Larry Spiegelberg, 23, 49 Hazel St., Neenah, was leaving an alley in the 100 block of First Street and failed to stop in time to avoid striking the cyclist riding on First Street.

Police charged Spiegelberg with failing to stop.

Committee Favors Proposal to Draft 19-Year-Olds First

House Group Displeased With Plan for Selection by Lottery

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House subcommittee that has shown little enthusiasm for President Nixon's lottery draft plan has indicated it will back the administration's idea of calling up 19-year-olds first.

Members of the special Armed Services subcommittee would give no details before sending recommendations on the lottery proposal to the full committee today.

But one source told a newsman, "You can quote the first paragraph of the President's list of priorities if you want to."

Pop Scene Irks Ravi Shankar

LONDON (AP) — Ravi Shankar, one of the great interpreters of Indian classical music on the ancient sitar, says he is trying to escape the frenzied embrace of the pop world which has turned him into an idol of worship.

"After the sitar was taken up by pop," the 49-year-old virtuoso said Wednesday, "I found the wrong sort of people coming to my concerts. Some of them came drugged and dazed. I was often disgusted by what I saw. Young people behaving indecently with one another during the concerts."

Shankar became part of the pop culture three years ago when Beatle George Harrison became his pupil and later wove the sound of the sitar into a string of Beatle hits.

Peterson 'Walking Fast' for Governor Bid

WAUKESHA (AP) — Donald O. Peterson, national co-chairman of the New Democratic Coalition, was asked Wednesday during a Moratorium Day observance whether he will seek the Democratic nomination for Wisconsin governor next year.

Peterson, who has made no formal commitment, replied: "If I'm not running, I'm walking very fast."

Schutz Addresses Congress

Jobs Important in New Welfare Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Labor George P. Shultz told Congress today President Nixon's plan to wean people off welfare rolls and onto payrolls will strengthen the economy.

"This is not a proposal for a guaranteed minimum income," Shultz told the House Ways and Means Committee.

"Work is a major feature of this program," he said of Nixon's proposal for a family assistance minimum of $1,600 a year, with most family heads required to register for work or job training.

Shultz said a pioneer Labor Department project called the Work Incentive Program already has shown the idea will work.

"Last Resort!" The Secretary opposed demands of organized labor that the federal government become the "employer of last resort" for those who can't find jobs in the private economy.

He said Nixon's family assistance plan provides incentives both for recipients, who can keep the first $60 a week plus a graduated percentage of their earnings, and for the government, which will benefit by reduced welfare payments.

Provision for child care centers also will provide an incentive for parents to go to work, he said. The present Work Incentive Program with 13,000 parents enrolled shows the concept is "very promising," Shultz said.

Others Volunteering "Most encouraging of all is the fact that mothers are volunteering," he said.

Speaking against AFL-CIO proposals to make the government "employer of last resort," Shultz said:

"Government should assume a responsibility for maintaining a healthy economy that produces enough jobs, and commit itself to preparing people to fill those jobs. We want no work-inventing system that offers a way around this basic responsibility."

He said the Labor Department estimates that 1.1 million of the 5 million family heads expected to be covered by the program will be required to register for work or training. Another 1.8 million of the working poor, to be brought under the program, will already have full-time jobs, he said. He also anticipated a substantial number of voluntary registrations for job training.

Welfare Overhaul Shultz was the second Cabinet officer to take the stand this week in support of the $4.4-billion welfare overhaul.

Secretary of Welfare Robert H. Finch plugged for the program Wednesday, then drew a barrage of criticism from some Democratic members of the committee.

Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., said the plan was an open-ended invitation that "can only lead to disaster. He said individuals and states would exploit the program and that it would not rehabilitate people.

Rep. Martha W. Griffiths, D-Mich., said the program would do nothing for juveniles and: "Far from reform, all you have added to this bill is money."

Rep. James A. Burke, D-Mass., chided the administration for saying higher Social Security payments could not start until March at the earliest and that benefits should be increased 10 per cent. Burke, who advocates a 15 per cent boost, said payments could start Dec. 1.

Nixon Plan One—which Nixon has indicated he will establish on his own if Congress does not approve the lottery—would let young men know their highest draft susceptibility would be near their 20th birthdays.

But they wouldn't know until the draft order was announced a month in advance what their chances were of being called, the officials said.

They all but dismissed the third alternative, drafting the oldest 19-year-olds first, on grounds men born in January would be highly susceptible and men born in December would be almost draft exempt.

Chairman F. Edward Hebert, D-La., long a lottery opponent, said at the outset of hearings his subcommittee wanted to hear a specific lottery plan. After the administration spelled out its plan he said it wasn't specific.

"It's the same old story," Hebert told Hershey. "People come up here with lottery proposals but it turns out they can't tell us what a lottery is."

Under the Administration proposal, a late September or early October lottery would determine the order of the 365 birthdates in the following year for calling up 19-year-olds.

Men with the first birthdates drawn would likely be drafted the following January and men with the last ones drawn would be likely to escape the draft.

There are only two alternatives but neither is as good, the administration officials told the subcommittee.

More Days of Protest

'Until the Boys Come Home'

WASHINGTON (AP) — up until President Nixon gives Bone-weary but elated, the youthful leaders of Moratorium Day have pledged to carry on the Vietnam protests "until the boys come home."

"If there is no change in Vietnam policy, if the President does not respond," said coordinator Sam Brown, "there will be a second moratorium."

The students, the long-haired, acne-scarred kids in tattered blue jeans and the ordinary citizens who joined them on Moratorium Day aren't going to let

Man Elected Into Women's World

SALINAS, Calif. (AP) — A man has been elected president of the Associated Women Students at Hartnell Junior College.

But student officers, somewhat embarrassed and suspecting that male students voted illegally, have ordered another election Friday.

"It started out as a coffee table joke," explained the winner, Mark Wall, a 6-footer who wears a beard. "We thought it would spark interest in an otherwise apathetic election."

Wall received 113 votes to 66 for Nancy Wong, who filed for the office after Wall did.

"The school constitution says only women can belong and vote in the organization," Wall said Wednesday, "but nothing says a man can't run for office."

House, organizers of the anti-war movement faced reporters at the crowded mobilization headquarters in Washington.

"Oh, wow. It was spectacular," said Brown, the Harvard divinity school dropout who conceived Moratorium Day.

Bulletin boards in the shabby, eighth-floor office that had been a nucleus for the antiwar movement since mid-summer turned yellow with telegrams from participants in other cities.

Large Turnout "A quarter of a million people turned out in New York," announced Marge Sklenar, one of the quartet who has coordinated efforts of the movement. "We had 100,000 in Boston and 30,000 in New Haven."

"Twenty thousand turned out in Chicago and no violence."

"What was that Marge?" asked a reporter.

"No violence," she beamed.

A miniskirted girl ran into the office and threw her arms around a reporter. "They're still marching. They're still marching out there. They're even picking up the litter."

Press conference over, the boys and girls sprawled into chairs and sank onto couches.

Brown and the others—Marge Sklenar, David Mixner and David Hawk—went into an inner office to talk and plan for next time. Somebody inside picked up a harmonica and played "We Shall Overcome."

Priests Ask for Celibacy Option

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — Optional celibacy for Roman Catholic priests has been recommended by the Priests' Council of the Carolinas and Georgia.

The 85 delegates representing about 500 priests ended their annual council meeting Wednesday by also endorsing civil disobedience as a legitimate form of protest in some cases.

Full disclosure of Church wealth was recommended, with 10 per cent of income proposed for social needs of the poor.

The council recommended that bishops, now appointed for life, be elected for specific terms.

Women Now Permitted In Future Farmers

KANSAS CITY (AP) — For the first time in its 42-year history, women will be permitted to join the Future Farmers of America.

Delegates to the FFA convention approved the proposal 76-34 Wednesday, the sixth time the measure had come up in the last five years.

Persons of high school age are eligible for membership.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Parents of three servicemen killed two years ago in Vietnam will receive from President Nixon Medals of Honor awarded posthumously to their sons. Two of the dead heroes were killed in the same platoon-sized combat action.

The nation's highest award for combat valor rarely has gone to members of the same platoon in a single engagement. The presentations will be made in private White House ceremonies today.

Spec. 5 Edgar L. McWethy Jr. and Spec. 4 Carmel B. Harvey Jr. were killed in action on June 21, 1967 in Binh Dinh province when their platoon was ordered to keep the enemy away from a downed helicopter. McWethy and Harvey were with Company B of the 1st Battalion, 5th Cavalry, 1st Cavalry Division (mobile).

The third medal recipient was Spec. 4 Dale E. Wayrynen, killed in Quang Ngai province on May 18, 1967 when his platoon, an element of the 101st Airborne Division, attempted the night evacuation of wounded from an earlier encounter.

Receiving the medals on behalf of their sons were Mr. and Mrs. Edgar L. McWethy of Baxter Springs, Kan.; Mr. and Mrs. Carmel Harvey of Chicago, and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene E. Wayrynen of McGregor, Minn.

McWethy, a medical aid man, continued to aid wounded comrades under heavy fire although he was wounded three times. A fourth wound was fatal.

Harvey, while trying to help two wounded companions, was hit by an enemy machine gun round that armed a grenade attached to his belt. After trying without success to remove the grenade, he jumped to his feet and raced directly into deadly enemy machine gun fire so as not to endanger the others.

Wayrynen threw himself on a live enemy grenade in order to save other members of his squad.

Valley Faces Exciting Challenge

Local Units Must Accept New Power

BY TOM TORINUS

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

OSHKOSH — "The gauntlet is down. It is a new ball game."

Such is the new and promising outlook for local government in Wisconsin. Douglas Weiford, secretary of the state Department of Local Affairs and Development, warned Tuesday.

For the first time in many years, the federal government has vowed to rid itself of central power in Washington and turn back responsibilities to local elected officials, Weiford pointed out at the forum sponsored by The Post-Crescent at the Pioneer Inn-Oshkosh. This is the "new federalism."

Likewise, the state will turn back responsibility to local government, requiring local officials to make decisions about the things which affect them, Weiford claimed.

Great Challenge
This reversal represents an "extraordinary challenge" to local government officials, Weiford said. His remarks served as a summary of the day-long public forum.

On the other hand, he warned that local government could break down in the Fox Valley, as it has in other parts of the country, unless local officials accepted the new challenge.

It is a challenge to change, to shed old animosities and to work together in a new area-wide context, he said.

Metropolitan governments have become necessary in some large urban areas like Minneapolis, Indianapolis, Nashville and Dade County, Florida, only because local governments have been unable to work together, he said.

And now the "crush" of urban growth is upon the valley, he said.

Show of Faith
Weiford said the governor's creation of a task force to study regional planning and administrative district boundaries in the Valley was a show of faith in local government by the state.

The state and federal governments are telling Valley officials to draw their own plan for the area, decide for themselves what the administrative district and regional planning boundaries should be, and then get together to do the job, he said.

If local government in the Valley can do it, Weiford said, the Valley will become a model for the state and the nation.

"And you will have taken major steps to preserve the quality of life in this lovely Valley for generations to come," he concluded. "I see this as the beginning of a new kind of renaissance."

Harbor Master of Port Washington Dies

PORT WASHINGTON (AP)—Alfred Freese, 60, Port Washington's harbor master, was found dead Wednesday night in his overturned truck on U.S. 141.

Authorities said it was not immediately certain whether a traffic accident was involved in the death.

Freese had operated a grocery store for about 20 years, and had made a delivery shortly before his truck was found.

Planners Told of Need to Coordinate Efforts

BY DOUG KOPLIEN

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

OSHKOSH — Unless officials respond to the demands for coordination and involvement in planning, local government will get weaker according to the Northwest Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission chairman.

Charles Tollander, Spooner, speaking to The Post-Crescent's planning forum here Wednesday, urged local officials to get together and launch a coordinated planning effort on a regional basis to get state and federal financial support.

"Government at all levels is becoming much more a business operation requiring the best possible management, budget, administrative and planning procedures," Tollander said.

Beyond Lip Service
"The mandate for us at the local level is coordination, involvement and planning if we are to realize maximum effectiveness and economies from public investment for needed facilities and services," he explained.

What is done to provide facilities and services has to go beyond lip service if communities want to improve their appearance and livelihood, he predicted.

Planners Told
According to Tollander, the best way to do this is planning on a regional basis.

He defined planning simply as "reasoned thinking" prior to taking action. "This has proved to be an invaluable tool to aid in decision-making," he said.

The Northwest planning commission formed in 1959, takes in 10 counties and was the first multi-county regional planning commission in Wisconsin.

Eliminate Duplication
To make the most of available programs, Tollander said, the Northwest commission has proposed that it be designated as the administrative district for the area. He said this would eliminate a duplication of services and effort which in the past has been characteristic of state and federal programs in his area.

He said the Northwest commission has proposed becoming the area clearing house for all federal and state program application and to administer and coordinate approval of programs.

"To be most effective, all the facets of regional planning and development must be closely coordinated and geared into the practical decision-making process regarding land use, tax levies, public works, transportation, water pollution, health and welfare programs, law enforcement and others," Tollander said.

Working Relations
"The type of programs we are engaged in is dependent upon strong inter-agency and inter-governmental working relations, strong local support, sound technical staffing and financial support from the state and local government," he added.

Through this type of cooperation, the Northwest commission has established a law enforcement program, sewer and water facilities planning program on a regional basis and is providing technical local planning assistance, coordinated with an overall program to local municipalities.

In addition to asking that it be designated an economic development district by Gov. Warren P. Knowles, the commission has asked to be designated as the clearing house for federal program applications and to coordinate planning and development activities.

"Paid For Itself"
While the commission has received many tangible grants, Tollander also pointed to other areas where it has more than "paid for itself."

These included providing a forum for local, state and federal officials to discuss common problems; providing residence planning assistance to local municipalities which they could not have afforded on an individual basis; aiding governmental decisions, and promoting sound logical development which will be an asset to the region.

Discussing Planning for the Fox River Valley at The Post-Crescent's forum in Oshkosh are Douglas Weiford, left, secretary of the state Department of Local Affairs and Government, and Charles Tollander, Spooner, chairman of the Northwest Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission.

Local Governments Told They Shouldn't be Islands

BY FRANK CHURCH

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

OSHKOSH — Four high state officials called for a regional outlook in solving problems ranging from health care to sewerage treatment, in a panel discussion on Fox Valley planning here Wednesday.

"If our problems are going to be solved, local governments cannot remain islands unto themselves," said Albert Karet-ski, director of the division of local and regional planning in the Department of Local Affairs and Development.

One of the state's leading fighters against water pollution, Thomas Frangos, asked, "Is it possible that we have so much government of water that we don't have enough government of water?"

Hard To Overcome
The executive director of the Wisconsin Council on Criminal Justice, Robert Walter, said that traditions of cities, towns and villages are hard to overcome in the face of growing problems that require regional action.

"But we must overcome and transcend the question of parochial jurisdiction if we are going to meet those problems," Walter said.

Regional planning for health needs, said Dr. George H. Handy, director of the bureau of comprehensive health planning in the Division of Health, will be needed to make the best use of the state's health care resources.

Through the formation of multi-county committees of citizens and officials, communities must plan to meet future health needs.

"True Partnership"
"If it doesn't work through these kinds of volunteer groups, I think we will have socialized medicine," he said. "Only through a true partnership of consumers, providers (physicians and others in the health industry) and governments is this idea going to work."

The four panelists spoke at a public forum on regional planning sponsored by The Post-Crescent at the Pioneer Inn. Hundreds of community leaders attended the forum entitled, "Planning for the future of the Fox River Valley."

Karet-ski commended the system of counties and towns that has accomplished a lot for Wisconsin in the past, but said urbanization and mechanization in the Fox Valley and elsewhere are requiring planning on a broader scale today.

"The challenge now is how much change is going to occur, and should the state and local governments cooperate in meeting the problems," he said.

Need For Planning
He predicted that the number of regional planning agencies in the state will grow in the years ahead, and that this will sharpen the need for inter-regional planning.

He said the state can provide leadership in coordinating the activities of regional planning units.

Handy said the concepts of health planning have changed since the days when the doctor had virtually full control over the health care of his patients. Today, he said, the people who receive health care services should have a voice in planning for them.

He said comprehensive health planning must try to achieve a "partnership of health" between physicians, citizens and government, to avoid duplication of services and meet society's growing health needs.

The health patterns of communities and regions can be changed by a highway constructed between communities or the opening of an emergency center in one hospital and the closing of one in another.

"Need Backing"
"It's planning we're talking about," he said. "We have to reach decisions that need the backing of a consensus of local officials, health service providers and people."

Walter suggested a new structure may need to replace the county government system in Wisconsin.

"We may need changes in boundaries every 10 or 15 years so that we can shift resources to focus on problems" that develop in different areas, he suggested.

"It's a time for regional statesmanship, rather than inter-regional politics," said Frangos, director of the division of environmental protection in the Department of Natural Resources.

He said a proliferation of water service districts, dealing with sewerage treatment, water, soil conservation and more, has raised the question whether or not existing agencies are too small to find a solution to growing water and pollution problems.

"We're convinced you can get better sewerage treatment from a regional system," he said, noting it would be less expensive, more efficient and better able to conduct pollution abatement program.

The alternative is a growing number of smaller treatment plants that are not always adequate.

He said there were 33 municipal sewerage treatment plans in the Fox Valley, and eight between Kaukauna and Neenah-Menasha. By the year 2,000, these eight plants, which now service about 124,000 persons, will serve an estimated 350,000.

Oshkosh Students Take Aim at ROTC Head

BY MARK OLIVA
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

OSHKOSH — An estimated 1,700 marchers paraded through the downtown district in an evening ceremony for peace and OSU students attempted to put the heat on the head of their ROTC department in conclusion of a day's moratorium for peace here Wednesday.

The marchers, a representative cross section of community members and high school and Oshkosh State University students, paraded their way through almost a mile of main downtown streets to the Winnebago County Courthouse.

Earlier in the afternoon, OSU faculty and students turned what was scheduled to be a debate on the war into a grilling of Lt. Col. Richard B. Sherwood, head of the school's military science department.

Sherwood told the group he was not appearing as a representative of the military, but rather as an individual taking a personal stand. He said, "I've been in war on three occasions. From the bottom of my heart, I can say war is the most wasteful, hateful—use any descriptive adjective you like! You want peace? I'm for it."

"Not Fighting Worse" "But the only thing that's worse than war is not fighting when your convictions are threatened. I'm not saying our convictions were threatened in Vietnam. I don't know if they were. There are a lot of things I'd like to know about this war."

Sherwood told the group before a pullout is suggested, those considering it also must give some consideration to the "blood bath" that will result for a number of anti-communist Vietnamese who have sided with and placed their trust in the United States.

He said the 1968 Tet offensive, as well as Vietnamese incidents in the past, gives a good indication of the killing and torture at communist hands that would follow a communist takeover. In particular, Sherwood cited the mass graves of Vietnamese assassinated during the Tet attacks. Dr. Walter Bense, chairman of the OSU religion department, said he had no doubt there would be a blood bath but indicated it should be no grounds for concern.

"Death for Traitors" "Why will there be a blood bath?" he asked. "This is a civil war, and in a civil war, these people look like traitors to the other side. To the Viet Cong, the people siding with the government and the U.S. are collaborating with a foreign enemy. "Many of these people have a record of treason. Before the Americans came, they were collaborating with the French. In most civil wars, those who lose are shot as traitors."

"I'm not saying I'm in favor of a blood bath or of people who lose any war being shot. That's just the way it goes in war." When one student began questioning Sherwood on the effectiveness and cooperation of the South Vietnamese, the ROTC commander leveled a frontal assault on newspapers and broadcasters.

"The news media has fallen flat on their (sic) duff in Vietnam. They've done the worse job of subjective reporting I've ever seen," he said.

Neglected by Media Sherwood told the group that in many instances South Vietnamese have effectively carried a large share of the combat load in Vietnam, but that these instances were neglected by the media, which made a point of reporting failures of the Vietnamese units.

He added that South Vietnam has "a real leadership problem. The Viet Cong has a mafia-like structure that has systematically assassinated most of the nation's potential leaders down to the lowest level. That's why the military is almost the only place with any effective leadership left."

Throughout the two-hour session, a total of about 700 OSU students attended. Most, however, were ignoring the moratorium on classes as usual and only sitting in for segments of the talk between classes.

Faculty members followed suit. The talk concluded when Bense left to teach a class, and after opening remarks, another member of the panel, Dr. Robert C. Delk, excused himself to teach.

The evening's candlelight marchers concluded their activities with a brief rally on the courthouse stairway. Ron Vande Loo, a conscientious objector on alternative service at Winnebago State Hospital here, and David Giffey, a member of the moratorium committee, addressed the marchers.

"Dangerous State" Giffey, who served with a combat unit in Vietnam during 1966, said, "A veteran who served in any war not need feel disloyal in speaking out for peace. It's time to do something about the treacherous frame of mind that exists in this country."

"We now have a doomsday machine in the soil of our own state. It's called 'Sanguine.' That means blood. We erect bronze war memorials to our dead. We teach men in our schools how to make war."

"It is not hard to stop war. One combatant cannot wage a war."

The Rev. Paul Franzen, Lutheran campus minister at OSU and rally moderator, suggested the marchers take their candles, inscribed with the name of a U.S. soldier who died in Vietnam, to their homes and that they write to the families of these soldiers and remind them that they carried their son's candle in a peace march.

Urine Sugar Not Too Unusual With Children

By George C. Thosteson, M. D. Dear Dr. Thosteson: Could you say something about incipient or borderline diabetes in children? My two grandchildren have this, yet are not treated as diabetics, although their sugar allowance is restricted.

My granddaughter was in the hospital nine days. They took all tests and pronounced her not diabetic. Yet the family doctor keeps a check on the children. Blood sugar is normal but urine specimens sometimes show a little sugar. — Mrs. O. W. C.

Many diseases can be simple and straightforward at times, and at other times involve all sorts of subtleties and complications. So, Mrs. C., I won't try to give you simple and positive answers. Qualified ones, rather, "Borderline" or "incipient" are rather indefinite terms to apply to children. You didn't give me the ages of these youngsters, but it is not too unusual for children to show sugar in the urine yet have normal blood sugar tests. This is called renal glycosuria (sugar in the urine). It is not diabetes mellitus. Sugar restriction is advisable with such cases. These youngsters do not necessarily develop diabetes.

There are some cases that are somewhat different. Youngsters with a strong family history of diabetes may be found to have an abnormal sugar tolerance level — a series of blood sugar tests being taken after giving a "loading dose" of sugar solution.

Despite the abnormal blood sugar test, these youngsters do not have symptoms of diabetes. In such cases, the amount of carbohydrate (and sugar) in the diet customarily is restricted, and "diabetes pills," in small doses, may be given to keep the blood sugar level low. This apparently offers some protection by keeping the sugar level normal. They may or may not develop diabetes later.

In the particular situation you cite, Mrs. C., the doctor is doing exactly the right thing. Checking the children regularly is essential. The children also should avoid overweight.

When diabetes develops in children, it usually does so with startling speed, and treatment should be commenced at the earliest possible moment. Diabetes develops more slowly in adults.

Therefore, parents are wise to be ultra-careful if any suspicion of diabetes exists. One of the most suspicious situations, of course, is the presence of diabetes in members on either side of the family, and the risk is quadrupled if it exists on both sides.

Blood sugar tests must be done by a physician, but testing for sugar in the urine can be done at home, and simply and easily. If sugar starts appearing, the doctor should be notified at once.

Excessive thirst and frequent urination are other signs for which parents should be on the alert.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can a woman 40 years old expect to give birth to a healthy baby? I have been told that a change-of-life baby often is not. Is this true? — N. B.

No, it's not true. Every woman, at any age, should expect to have a healthy baby in the absence of any known factors that would prevent it.

At 40 or older, the risks of a defective baby are somewhat greater than for younger mothers, but this is a matter of percentages and averages. The majority of babies born to older mothers still are healthy.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Vocational Homemakers Club Takes Swiss Holiday

BY MARY WITT
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Tail Wagging, a Curious neighborhood dog sniffs at a Swiss Alphorn about to be played by H. M. Schmid, curator of the Chalet of the Golden Fleece, for his guests, the Vocational Homemakers. Moments later when he blew the first note, the dog nearly did a somersault in his shock. In the background is the chalet with its carved balconies and shuttered windows. Stones, rather than nails, keep the shingles in place.

While Touring the Swiss Village Museum, Mrs. Wayne Rehmer, Neenah, takes a moment to admire an antique doll that shows the wear and tear of love.

All Eyes Are on One of four 16½ ton Schiffle embroidery machine at the Upright Swiss Embroideries, Inc. The 684-needle machine can embroider 20 yards of fabric at one time.

NEW GLARUS — Nestled among the autumn-hued rolling hills of southern Wisconsin, New Glarus with its population of 1,500 could have gone the way of many early settlements to become just another picturesque village drowsing in the October sunshine. But here and there along the highway, ornate chalets reflect pride in a Swiss heritage that has become the town's drawing card for survival.

Dating back to 1845, when the Swiss colony was founded under the auspices of Switzerland's Kanton of Glarus, New Glarus today is a mecca for tourists who flock to enjoy Swiss culinary delights and to see the treasured remnants of a way of life that remains very much alive among the third and fourth generation Swiss who still call the area home.

Enthusiasm Runs High

Among the hundreds of people who took advantage of Tuesday's fine fall weather to visit the village before the snow flies and its historical exhibits close was Appleton's Vocational Homemakers Club and guests. Numbering 42, the women boarded a chartered bus bright and early to travel the 140 miles past Oshkosh, Fond du Lac, Beaver Dam, and Waupun, to New Glarus, which lies 30 miles south of Madison.

The excursion was planned by Mrs. James F. Evans, the group's vice president and an enthusiastic Wisconsinite who believes that the state's rural areas offer an endless list of places to see and things to do without having to resort to the all too common women's shopping spree in the big city.

Initial proof of her theory came with the Chalet of the Golden Fleece, located about half way up the steep hill where the shops and homes of New Glarus are clustered. Surrounded by residences built in the American tradition, the chocolate brown chalet with its geranium-filled window boxes, bright green shutters, romantic balconies, cookie-cutter scallops and hearts, and hand carved German quotations has captured the fancy of visitors from all over the nation.

Gift to Village

In 1937, Swiss architect Jacob Rieder designed and began building the authentic Alpine chalet at the request of Edwin Barlow and his aunt, Mrs. Fannie Figli. Longtime resident, C. J. Stuessy still remembers the night in 1955, when Barlow stood up before the town council with an announcement to make. "He told us he wanted to give us everything — the chalet and all the things he collected over the years — free. New Glarus didn't have to pay a dime," recalled Stuessy, his words tinged with surprise that has yet to diminish over the years at the thought of so priceless a gift.

A world traveler, Barlow decorated his three-story chalet with antique Swiss and early American furniture and valuable art objects, including a Swiss doll collection, treasured silver and jewelry, religious relics, ancient parchments and rare glass. But in spite of its awesome value, the chalet and its contents possess a hominess and warmth that similar showplaces lack.

Emerging from the chalet, the Homemakers were treated to a farewell solo on the Swiss Alphorn, a six-and-a-half-foot birch instrument played by curator, H. M. Schmid, whose performance terrified a neighborhood dog curious to know what all the excitement was about.

Pioneer Village Toured

Then it was on the Swiss Village Museum, a replica of the original pioneer village. As guide and director of the museum, Stuessy recounted a history of hardships and re-

MIYWW Participants Reminded of Entry Date

Orders for entry blanks continue to flood the offices of "Make It Yourself With Wool" (MIYWW) directors as this year's program draws to a close. The mailing deadline for entries is Oct. 22, but participants need not finish their garments until their District Days in November.

Wisconsin took third place in the nation last year, despite her relatively small population. Nearly 1300 teen-agers from the state participated, earning national acclaim and recognition for home economics teachers and home agents as well as students.

Another record-breaking attendance is expected this year, so MIYWW girls are urged to return their entry blanks as soon as possible to facilitate preparations at district and state events. These outings will include modeling training, luncheons and fashion shows.

Through a new ruling set up by the American Wool Council, Wisconsin may send two finalists to the national competition if as many as 1200 girls take part.

This program was made available to girls in Wisconsin over 10 years ago by the Wisconsin Wool Growers Association and its Auxiliary. These groups have sponsored MIYWW yearly along with the Farm Bureau Women, Rural Mutual Insurance Co. and the Wisconsin Association of Cooperatives. They provide funds to send girls to state finals for a cost-free, chaperoned weekend.

The event is open to all girls from the ages of 10 to 21. It has been the approved list of the National Association of Secondary School Principals for 14 years. The program is arranged to include the novice as well as the skilled seamstress.

Entry blanks may be obtained from Miss Beverly Van Duerzen, route 2, De Pere 54115.

Mrs. Freeman To Present Organ Program

Northeastern Wisconsin chapter of the American Guild of Organists will meet at 4 p.m. Sunday at Margaret Banta Memorial Chapel, Theda Neeh Hospital, Neenah. Mrs. Marilyn Freeman, organist at St. Paul Lutheran Church, Neenah, will play a program of modern compositions featuring the various stops of the new Allen organ.

Ruben Schulz will speak on electronic organs and show the unusual installation of this instrument. Dr. Robert E. Dedmon, Neenah, dean of the chapter, will be host at a social hour after the meeting.

Church musicians and guests have been invited to attend this meeting.

Women Absent From Speakers' Platform

Ripon College Students Wear Armbands for Peace

BY ALICE K. HUCK
Post-Crescent Women's Editor

RIPON — Although as many women as men students wore the white armband symbol for peace on the Ripon College campus Wednesday, the women were noticeably absent from the speakers' platform nor did they participate in the discussion from the Memorial Gymnasium floor.

Even Mrs. Betty Boardman, Madison, who was scheduled on the program at 11:30 a.m., postponed her talk and was to bring her films, "from North Vietnamese sources" to Great Hall sometime during the evening.

About 250 students, of a body of 2,000, gathered in the gymnasium to hear four speakers as scheduled by the Vietnam War Moratorium Committee at the college. The event was directed by the Rev. Jerry Thompson and art professor Erwin Breithaupt.

The Ripon faculty had rejected a proposal to suspend all classes for the moratorium, and left the decision on classes up to individual instructors.

Student Gets Applause

Speakers at the morning session were Dean of Ripon College, Robert P. Ashley; Peter Harris, a student; Pat Lucy, announced candidate for governor in 1970, and Mike Schraeder, a 1967 graduate of Ripon, now a student at Oshkosh State University, who recently returned from Vietnam.

Unscheduled speakers were two members of the Black Panthers, who talked to a group of about 100 during the noon hour, and in the language of the streets, called for a grassroots uprising of all of the working people to use "war money for welfare programs, and education."

Most heavily applauded was fellow student Peter Harris who gave four alternatives for peace in Vietnam: (1) immediate withdrawal, (2) scheduled reduction of our armed forces, (3) follow the pattern of General Sherman's march to the sea (start at South Vietnam and destruct the country from south to north), (4) stop fighting on both sides and call in an impartial force to help set the peace.

He urged his fellow students to "think for yourselves for a change, stop parroting what you hear from organized groups and accept this day as one of contemplation, meditation and learning. Try for once to be honest in your approach," he said.

When referring to "honesty," Harris said the public's impression of a student protestor is a guy shouting, "immoral" while he looks for a broad, carrying a bottle of wine in one hand and fumbling for marijuana with the other.

Asks for Thinkers

"Too often this is true," he added, and it is time we students do some serious thinking and some serious talking."

Pat Lucy called for immediate withdrawal of all American troops subject to the safety of these troops and sanctuary for any Vietnamese who would be in danger if they stayed in their own country.

He complimented the students on their quiet assembly and said, "We don't need violence to protest violence." But he urged that the students not speak too softly or they wouldn't be heard by Mr. Nixon. When you hear Vietnam described by Mr. Nixon as our finest hour, it seems to me he needs a lot of pressure from the other side," Lucy said.

Lucy gave a history of the "entanglement" in the Vietnam War and during his discussion criticized the escalation under President John F. Kennedy, President Lyndon Johnson and President Nixon.

When asked from the audience if he had not campaigned for both Kennedy and Johnson, he answered that he had but it was now time for everyone, including himself, to stand up and admit that they had acted in error.

Question Pat Lucy

When asked by another student how they were to be sure Lucy "wasn't another sweet-talking candidate giving out with the same old political crap," Lucy answered that his feeling on the war had nothing to do with his candidacy and as far as he knew the State of Wisconsin thus far had established no foreign policy.

He did admit that a governor has a tough time solving social problems when 70 cents out of each tax dollar is going to war-related expenditures.

The most violent reactions came after the talk by Schraeder who spent most of his half hour discussing the plight of the South Vietnamese people, the lack of courage of the South Vietnamese army and the atrocities committed by American soldiers.

First to leap to his feet was Major Herman Lukow, a two year veteran of service in Vietnam and its border countries. He said he resented the implication that our American youth now in service would stoop to wholesale rape and murder. He was applauded when he said, "American youth that I saw over there could and did control themselves in a better manner than you have projected."

Schraeder also spoke for immediate withdrawal of all troops and sanctuary "in any country that would accept Vietnamese who would be involved in a blood bath of retaliation by the Viet Cong when we pulled out."

Need Moral Support

In the meantime Schraeder said, Americans should give moral support to individual soldiers via letters and packages because "these men are not responsible for the killing they have to do."

He admitted that many soldiers in Vietnam do not believe in the war, but do believe and are behind the United States of America which sent them there.

After more questioning he said the majority of soldiers do not commit atrocities, but he said that men under pressure do things they would not do at home.

The moratorium began in Ripon with an 8 a.m. march of about 100 students to the square. At about 9 a.m. there was one girl in a long black robe reading the list of Vietnam war dead and five male students listening. In the afternoon there was to be a house-to-house canvas of the town for signatures on a protest telegram to President Nixon. It was discovered in an interview that another group of students was going to canvass the town for signatures supporting President Nixon.

Although no formal action was taken by businessmen on the flying of flags in support of the Vietnam action, about 20 flags were flying in front of Ripon business establishments. Some business places displayed posters announcing the moratorium meeting, and there appeared to be five or six townspeople present at the gymnasium.

Great Man Disgusted With Play

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

"Pchah!" Sherlock Holmes snorted as he watched today's hand at the Baker Street Bridge Club. "It would be a pleasure to hang a criminal like that." And he stalked out of the club, with poor, bewildered Dr. Watson tagging at his heels.

South ruffed the spade lead, drew two rounds of trumps with the king and queen and then led a low diamond, hoping to duck the trick to East. Unluckily for South, West put in the jack of diamonds, and declarer had to win in dummy with the ace.

Declarer returned a diamond to the king and then led a third

South probably wouldn't have beaten four spades, but he could have by taking two diamonds and one heart before leading the second heart. East would have to ruff and then would have to give up a trick to a black king since he would be unable to reach dummy for a finesse.

Daily Question

As dealer, you hold: S-None, H-K Q J 9 7 6 5, D-K 8 2, C-8 5 3. What do you say?

Answer: Bid three hearts, even if vulnerable. If not vulnerable, if you are an adventurous soul, open with four hearts. Your hand will probably take six or seven tricks at hearts, but may be worth one trick at most if the opponents play the hand at spades. It pays to shut them out, if you can.

diamond, hoping East would have to win the trick. West won with the queen, as luck would have it; and West's club return gave East two tricks to defeat the contract.

"Well, he had to bid five hearts," Dr. Watson protested. "He couldn't have beaten four spades, so five hearts was a splendid sacrifice."

"Pchah!" Holmes repeated, and Watson couldn't get another word out of him. Do you see why the great man was so upset?

Golden Opportunity

South should have made his contract by a brilliant play at the very first trick. He should play dummy's king of spades on West's jack, forcing East to play the ace of spades. South carefully discards a low diamond on this trick.

East returns a spade (as good a defense as any), and South ruffs. Declarer draws trumps with the king and queen, cashes the top diamonds and ruffs a diamond. Then he leads a trump to the ace and discards two clubs on the last two diamonds.

Antique Forum Begins Monday at Ford Museum

DEARBORN, Mich. — The tenth annual Midwest Antiques Forum at the Henry Ford Museum in Dearborn, Mich. Monday through Friday will examine the question of quality. Through a series of outstanding illustrated lectures, panel discussions and exhibits, the forum will explore the theme, "Collecting Americana: The Craftsmanship of Quality."

The 13 recognized authorities who make up this year's distinguished panel of speakers will discuss the standards of workmanship, design, materials and ingenuity that result in quality. Their aim will be to present to participants a primer of basic knowledge to assist both the beginning and the advanced collector of antiques.

Ten Years
In its ten year history, the Midwest Antiques Forum has become one of the most outstanding in the country. Participants come from all over the midwestern United States and Canada and even as far away as California to take part. This year's forum promises even more excitement for them.

The highlight of the week will undoubtedly be the special exhibit, "A Decade of Collecting," which stresses the additions to the collections of Greenfield Village and the Henry Ford Museum since the first forum. It will include outstanding objects from each of the categories to be discussed by the speakers.

As an added feature this year, forum participants will be invited to attend a reception and banquet commemorating the 40th anniversary of the Village and Museum on Tuesday. On this gala occasion, nearly 400 invited guests — leaders in education, industry and government — will help focus national attention on the educational contributions the institutions have made to Americans in all walks of life since their dedication in 1929.

Village Tours
Rounding out the week's activities, the forum also will feature informal panel discussions and teas, tours of the Village and Museum, special tours to homes which exemplify the theme, and the forum banquet on the final evening. In this atmosphere, participants have an opportunity to meet the lecturers and the other participants and to ask questions and exchange ideas. Through this widely varied program, the Midwest Antiques Forum achieves its goal of increasing the knowledge and broadening the horizons of all collectors.

There will be a general meeting of members and guests to make plans for future events at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the El Lugar Room of the Y. Volleyball will be played at 9 p.m. in the gym.

The group will gather for supper at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 24 at the Village Inn, Menasha. On Oct. 26, bowling is scheduled for 1:30 p.m. at the 41 Bowl, and there will be volleyball at 9 p.m. Oct. 29 at the Y.

The Group is for single young adults from 18 to 35 years of age. Guests are welcome. More information is available by calling the Y.

Appleton Baker Wins Award In Competition

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. — Jay Hoover, Appleton, won a "Best of Class" award in the U. S. Bakers Bake-off competition sponsored by the Pillsbury Company. His entry, Banana Split Cake, combines a banana filling with strawberries and whipped cream. Mr. Hoover represents Tastee Bakery.

The Pillsbury Company of Minneapolis sponsors the U.S. Bakers Bake-off to provide professional bakers with an opportunity to compete in creative baking. From all across the country, bakers from bakeries of all sizes from small shops to large chains entered their formulas in one of five categories: cake doughnuts, yeast doughnuts, cakes and pastries, sweet dough goods, and bread and rolls.

A total of 60 prizes and cash awards were presented including a grand prize of $1,500 and an all-expense paid vacation to Copenhagen, Denmark, to Frank Bonaventura, Hudson, Mass.

They will reside at Menasha.

Teens Object to Perversion In Movies

HONOLULU (AP) — In the land of the minibikini, seven high school seniors sat around a table talking about sex and nudity in the movies.

"If you want realism," said a boy with glasses and long hair, "you have to go into sex because it's so much a part of everything."

But he and the others taking part in a discussion sponsored by the Honolulu Star-Bulletin agreed that sex for sex's sake is wrong. And they objected to what they viewed as a trend toward perversion in movies.

"It seems that sex between a man and a woman is just not right for the movies," said David Holt, 18. "People don't enjoy it. Now it has to be homosexuality or lesbianism—something unusual."

Michael Yoshida, 17, agreed. "I don't consider exposing the body anything obscene," he said. "All the men are made the same. But in movies nowadays, they seem to push the abnormal side of any story."

There has to be a distinction between art and sensationalism, said Lani Stemmermann, 17, a senior at Hawaii School for Girls.

"It's fine if sex will follow naturally in the context of the story," she said.

James Hirai, 18, took this view: "If you're going to make a really neat movie, then it's good to use whatever tools you have. It's all right to

How to Stretch Clean Laundry

BY ERMA BOMBECK

As a housewife who washes clothes every three hours, you can't imagine what a thrill it was for me to meet Mary Lou Krock, a Cleveland suburbanite who confessed to doing the laundry "every other week or so."

"It's just having a system," she said. "Women spoil their families by running an around-the-clock laundromat. Most kids toss clothes into the hamper like discarded nose tissue. The average household has a change of linens, extra towels and closets and drawers full of clothing that is never worn. Simply lay down some rules and stand firm."

This intrigued me. But how do you know how long to hold out?

"Easy," she smiled. "Hold out until your son's favorite jeans (which cut off the blood supply to the kidneys) have had a chance to cool off for at least 36 hours and he is driven to wear the ones he can sit down in."

"Hold out until your husband uses up his three pairs of faded underwear and is forced to break the ribbons on an entire drawer of new ones left over from his trousseau."

"Hold out until your daughter ter wears the dress you picked out, and the blouse and placed them near the cold air duct where the circulation was better. They'll tell you their gym suits did calisthenics and there was no one in them. They'll tell you they can't get their pictures taken for the yearbook without a shirt.

"They'll tell you the dish towels won't bend and that they've resorted to wearing wax paper for underwear. Hold fast and watch for the crucial moment. One evening your children and husband will come home from school and office and will take off their good clothes and hang them up on hangers."

"Surely you jest," I interrupted.

"They will pick towels up off the floor and hang them neatly on the towel racks. They will not play around in their stocking feet, but will conserve them with shoes. The moment has arrived. They are desperate people. It is time to do the laundry."

Teen Believes We Live in Stinking World

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I could she leave the kids with, even if she had some decent skills, which she probably hasn't. I'm not even mentioning the aged or the sick. The creeps who scream the loudest about welfare are the ones who try to convince themselves that poverty doesn't exist. The stock phrase hurled at folks on welfare is, "Get off your can and get a job." The answer to that one is simple: Who is going to hire a boozier with a lousy work record, or a kid who has been in trouble with the law. Then there's the woman who has six little children and a missing husband — who could she leave the kids with, even if she had some decent skills, which she probably hasn't. I'm not even mentioning the aged or the sick. The creeps who scream the loudest about welfare are the ones who try to convince themselves that poverty doesn't exist.

by moving to a better part of town so they don't see it. By now you may have guessed, I'm a teen-ager who is against the establishment. You can criticize our hair and our clothes and our music but we believe this is a stinking world we're living in and we aren't going to settle for it. — Also Disgusted

Dear Also: I agree there are many aspects of the world that are stinking and I applaud the kids who refuse to settle for shoddy standards and phony values. But please don't burn anything down until you've got something to put in its place. There are others in this world besides you and you don't own it yet.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Two months ago my mother offered to buy my husband and me a car when we graduate from college in February if we both agreed to quit smoking. We were delighted with the offer and accepted it.

Three weeks ago my husband started to smoke again. I became absolutely furious. I considered it a personal affront that he did not keep his word since we both wanted the car so badly.

My husband and his family insist that my mother had no business pitting us against one another. Furthermore they say she was wrong to dangle the gift in front of us. What is your opinion? — Gift Horse

Dear Gift: Your mother made a generous offer — one which might have added years to your lives. You both accepted it. Your husband apparently had neither the self discipline nor the personal integrity to keep his word, so now you've both lost out. Put the blame where it belongs. On your husband.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our

daughter is 18 and pregnant. Gloria is crazy about the boy but he denies he is the father and refuses to marry her. He has even gone so far as to say he will prove in court, if necessary, that three of his friends had sex with her. We've begged Gloria to put the child up for adoption but she insists she wants to raise it. She is immature and has no sense of responsibility. I'm sure she wants to keep the child because she believes it will help her get the boy back. I have two children under 12 years of age and I'm in poor health. I cannot take on a new baby. I'm sure Gloria would put the work on me because this is the way she has always done. How can we make her listen? — F. L. P.

Dear F. L. P.: Legally your daughter is of age and she can do as she pleases. You can and should however, inform her that you will not keep her baby if she disregards your wishes. I hope for the child's sake she listens to you.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Students from Xavier and Appleton public high schools, above, sit on the Lawrence University chapel stage late Wednesday afternoon as high school and college speakers express divergent opinions about the Vietnam war. The rally turned into an informal debate between Young Americans for Freedom, an Appleton East rightist youth group, and those seeking immediate and total troop withdrawals. At right, an Oshkosh State University student reads from a list of 44,000 war dead on the stairs of the Winnebago County Courthouse Wednesday. The reading began at 9 a.m. and continued through an 8:30 p.m. rally. (Post-Crescent Photos)

Speeches, Marches

Moratorium Day Ends Peacefully

Hundreds of Fox Cities area students participated in Wednesday afternoon and evening moratorium activities but there were few incidents.

About 40 Appleton High School East students braved a light rain and marched to the Lawrence University chapel after school for a rally of speeches, singing and discussion. They were joined by about 40 students from Xavier and Appleton West.

Over 100 students of the Fox Valley Campus at Menasha gathered for a bonfire rally near the school Wednesday night, continuing their program of talks and discussion.

Protests at Minnium

One zealous youth was reported to have stolen an American flag about 2 p.m. from the window of the Appleton Building and Loan Association office at 320 E. College Ave.

Other protest plans failed to materialize. A group of Lawrence students and faculty who, it was rumored, planned to appear before the city council Wednesday night with an anti-war resolution never appeared.

Mayor George Buckley said he had several policemen standing by at the police station across the street in case trouble developed.

About a dozen Fox Valley Campus students planned an afternoon march to downtown Appleton but discarded the idea because they felt it would interfere with the daylong campus program of speeches and discussion.

Students Suspended

The Neenah High students who walked out of school Wednesday morning and marched on Menasha High and St. Mary High to recruit anti-war protest support are suffering the consequences. At least 40 were reported suspended from classes today and Friday by Principal Alvin Long.

Most of these students were rounded up later in the morning by police and school officials with a school bus; however, some drove to Lawrence chapel to attend an assembly there.

At Lawrence, Dr. Thomas S. Smith, university president, read telegrams from Sens. William Proxmire and Gaylord Nelson, both D-Wis., who expressed support for the moratorium observance on the Lawrence campus.

Proxmire said the observance "... promotes the truth and furthers the cause of peace ..." and "... deserves the support of all public men ..."

Nelson called it a "day of unique expression of this country's overwhelming desire to bring our mistaken involvement in Vietnam to an end at an early date."

Kaukauna High School activities were reported calm although they attracted opposition from some groups earlier in the week.

Antiwar elements at the University of Wisconsin sponsored one of the nation's largest Moratorium Day observances Wednesday night as thousands of young persons turned out in a cold rain to protest the Vietnam conflict.

Marches, soap box speeches, candlelight parades and debating sessions attracted an estimated 30,000 Moratorium Day participants in communities and at campuses throughout Wisconsin.

John Laird, student son of Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird, joined a Wednesday night parade of about 3,000 persons from Eau Claire State University to a federal building.

An equal number clogged a War Memorial Center in Milwaukee. About a third of the enrollment reported for war seminars at St. Norbert College — the state's only school to attract such a campaign could be run against a candidate.

Pair of 'Vigilantes' Wreck Book Store

Two vigilantes stormed into a northside Appleton book store late Wednesday afternoon and in his 40s and the other in his 30s, came in the store and scattered magazines, tipped shelves and threatened to torch the building.

Damage to the Appleton Book Store, 902 W. Wisconsin Ave., was estimated at $200.

The sacking of the store, formerly known as The Book Nook, came within an hour after adjournment of a Circuit Court trial for the operator of another Appleton book store who is charged with selling obscene magazines.

Thomas Hamm, Clintonville, operator of the Wisconsin Avenue store, and one of his employees are scheduled to stand trial in Circuit Court Oct. 27 on five counts of selling obscene magazines.

Police were summoned to The Appleton Book Store about 5:40 p.m.

An employee in the store, Fred

Coryell, 317½ W. College Ave., said two well-dressed men, one in his 40s and the other in his 30s, came in the store and asked, "How can you sell this garbage?"

One man added, "If this town won't close you, I'll burn you down. If you don't believe me, try me. My 12-year-old kid bought a book here."

The men threw books around the store and tipped over two book racks, bending one.

They attempted to overturn the cash register, then the counter under the register, but Coryell said he held onto the counter.

The men left the store and fled in a late model car Coryell said was parked outside on N. Bennett Street. He said there was no rear license plate on the green auto.

Both men appeared to have been drinking, Coryell told police.

Mayor Collects 1,076 Petitions, Raps Educators

Appleton Mayor George Buckley predicted this morning that Vocational, Technical and Adult Education District 12 officials will "find some phony, nit-picking reasons to disregard" petitions he filed late Wednesday demanding a referendum on a proposed $6 million bond issue.

The mayor delivered the petitions, containing just 76 signatures more than the 1,000 minimum required, at 5:20 p.m. on the last day they could be filed.

Buckley hand-delivered them to the vocational district secretary, Robert Schneider, at Schneider's Hortonville home.

William Sirek, VTE-12 director, said this morning Schneider had brought the petitions to the district office and the signatures are being checked for validity.

Must be Valid Sirek said the vocational board "has no objection to the democratic process" being employed to allow voters to speak on the bonding. But, Sirek added the staff had hoped to avoid "this additional expense," meaning the cost of conducting a referendum.

The vocational board meets Monday and could set a referendum in early December if at least 1,000 of the signatures on the petition are found valid, Sirek said.

Buckley has urged the board to put off plans to build the proposed Fox Valley Technical Institute until federal funds can be acquired to help pay the cost.

The mayor said in his statement this morning, "Merely by adopting its initial bonding resolution, the board has proven that it is not content to wait for federal aid, but that it would rather place the entire burden of building the new vocational school on the property tax rolls of the four counties comprising the district."

He continued, "I can predict with complete confidence that the board will find some phony, nit-picking reasons to disregard the petitions."

Accusing the board of a "public-be-damned" attitude, Buckley said the board is "deathly afraid of a referendum."

He also predicted the new school "will not be a $6 million building but that the end cost will be closer to double or even triple that figure."

Buckley was accompanied to Hortonville by Ralph Gertsch, former Appleton alderman who helped with last-minute efforts to bring the total signatures over the 1,000 legal minimum. At Hortonville they picked up Police Chief Douglas Jones at his home before seeking out Schneider.

Unable to reach Schneider by telephone before leaving Appleton, the mayor had expressed suspicion that the vocational board secretary had "deliberately absented himself" to avoid being served with the petitions. By statute, the secretary is the only person with whom the petitions may be filed.

Finding the secretary at home, Buckley politely turned over the petitions and told Schneider, "If you read any

Post-Crescent Forum

Metropolitan Concept Helps Cure Urban Ills

BY PETER GENIESSE

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

OSHKOSH — A bold new experiment in metropolitan government, something which is channeling the resources of 125 neighboring communities and perking the imagination of thousands of officials across the U.S., paid a visit to the Fox Valley Wednesday.

Arthur Naftalin, former mayor of Minneapolis, carried the concepts of Minnesota's metropolitan planning with power to a variety of Valley officials, representing independent municipalities from Green Bay to Fond du Lac.

The dramatic approach to melting boundary lines and curing parochialism to meet the problems of a highly-urbanized 21st century was part of the day-long forum on "Planning for the Future of the Fox River Valley," sponsored by The Post-Crescent, at the Pioneer Inn.

Former Mayor

Naftalin, currently professor of public affairs at the University of Minnesota after serving an eight-year stint as mayor of Minneapolis, spoke glowingly of the Twin Cities Metropolitan Council, crediting the cooperative spirit which formed it for landing such now famous Minnesota products as the Vikings and the Twins.

The council, created by the state legislature just two years ago, has brought together some 300 units of government in a seven-county area to work on common municipal problems.

The 15-member group, from 30 legislative districts but "representing the people, not the governments," has been given the say on such boundary-defying problems as sewerage systems, transportation and open space developments.

Hostile to Idea

Back in 1961, when Naftalin took over the Minneapolis mayor's chair, officials in the suburban communities surrounding the Twin Cities were "hostile" toward the idea of metropolitan government. Even his own city council wouldn't have anything to do with it as members opposed the creation of a metropolitan sewerage district. That resolution, Naftalin recalled, was the victim of his first mayoral veto.

The neighboring communities becoming more self-protective, looked upon the Twin Cities with suspicion and felt, as Naftalin said, "The problems of the central city were not their problems."

"We started with a good deal of opposition," he remarked.

Naftalin was convinced the area's big problems, such as solid waste and sewage disposal, couldn't be solved unless a metropolitan approach was taken.

After some groups, including the League of Women Voters and an organization of municipal officials there their support behind the idea, "We started the mutual education process."

Council Created

In 1967, the state legislature created the council and turned over the appointments to the governor.

Naftalin said the group wanted elected officials and area and worked on compiling information on the region.

This year, the legislature added the jurisdiction of open space planning and sewage disposal to the "metro" council. And by next January, all the sanitary districts in the suburban communities will go out of business, leaving just one system for the seven counties.

The council also is moving into other areas, as is evidenced by the $100,000 federal grant to study low-income housing in the seven counties.

Naftalin feels a single law enforcement agency to replace the 120 separate police departments is on its way, but notes that it's still a decade off.

Committee Reveals Minutes Were Kept Of 'Secret Meeting'

The minutes of the Sept. 15 county board's public properties committee meeting, which was charged Tuesday as being secret and illegal, were kept, but not in the regular committee file.

Committee Secretary Sylvester Lenz, Kimberly, said today he had kept the minutes, along with minutes of three other committee meetings which dealt entirely with the safety building, separate from the regular committee meetings at the suggestion of committee Chairman Jerome Hiller, Appleton.

Hiller was not present at today's committee meeting.

The Sept. 15 meeting, which also was attended by Appleton Ald. John Ayers (12th) and county executive secretary Alvin Woehler, had been called without any prior public notice.

Seek Investigation

At Tuesday's Outagamie County Board meeting, two supervisors, Eugene Kloes and Nick Karras, both of Appleton, asked District Atty. James Long to investigate whether the meeting was illegal.

Lenz read the minutes this morning which indicated the only discussion was possible lease rates for the City of Appleton if the city elected to lease space in the planned safety building.

As a result of the meeting, Ayers recommended to the Appleton Board of Public Works the offer be rejected as being too expensive.

'Matter Closed'

Kloes and Karras had contended the offer to the city was not in line with the county board's directive and that contact with the city should be re-established.

County Board Chairman Sylvester Esler told the committee this morning he considered the matter closed. He said a registered letter had been sent to the city and the city failed to answer.

However, he did chide them for holding meetings without giving advance notice. "It isn't asking too much to give 24 hours notice for a meeting," he said.

The committee also decided to survey the entire area around the courthouse for parking purposes. Plans for courthouse lawn parking were referred back to the committee by the county board Tuesday.

Esler said he still felt the lawn parking plan was the cheapest route to get additional parking space.

Lenz agreed but said he felt all of the alternatives should be looked into and the entire package presented to the board at once.

Byrnes Discusses the Future

From Re-election to Retirement

BY TIM WYNGAARD

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

WASHINGTON — "It's the novelty of the idea — running against a priest. It's intriguing."

Rep. John W. Byrnes, R-Green Bay, now in his 13th term in the House of Representatives, was assessing the prospects of running against a Catholic priest in 1970 when he will try for yet another term in Congress.

"It's just that there isn't any way to judge it — how you are going to do," said a veteran staff man on Capitol Hill in considering the potential of a Catholic priest-candidate in a heavily Catholic district.

There was no fear in the discussions. They were almost clinical in their analysis of political prospects. There was a note of professional interest, in fact, in anticipating how such a campaign could be run against a candidate.

Favorite Story

But it seemed somewhat like a favorite story of Abe Lincoln's as well — the oft-told tale about the man being run out of town on a rail.

If it weren't for the honor of the thing, the victim reportedly commented, he'd just as soon forego the experience.

For Byrnes apparently faces the unique prospect in American history of confronting a priest for re-election. From all appearances and reports in state Democratic party circles, the Rev. Robert Cornell of St. Norbert College, De Pere, is prepared to run.

All that remains for such a campaign appears to be the formal announcement — unless clerical authorities block Cornell's bid.

From talks here, it appears that it isn't the bare religious question that bothers Byrnes' men.

Byrnes is a Catholic, and if there is such a thing in the district as a Catholic vote, its impact would be well-diluted by his well-known standing as such.

But outside of the district it could have some impact — especially in liberal Catholic and non-Catholic circles interested in the new reforms of the Church and Cornell's liberal positions on political matters.

Could such observers from outside the state be attracted to contribute to such a campaign? That's the question being asked here — and it is coupled to the question as to whether they could be interested in coming up with the $50,000 or so that would be needed to run a realistic campaign against the well-entrenched Byrnes.

Such outside contributors were attracted to the election drive that sent Democrat Da-

'Obscene Books' Trial Goes to Jury Today

"The books themselves will speak as loudly as anything I can say," Dist. Atty. James R. Long told a jury of eight men and four women during final arguments late this morning in the trial of an Appleton book store operator charged with selling obscene magazines.

The Circuit Court jury, which heard nearly a full day of testimony from only four witnesses, began deliberation about noon in the case involving Eugene Court, 43, 508 S. Walnut St., operator of The Book Seller, 609 W. College Ave.

The felony charge against Court was brought in a complaint signed by Robert Schreier, an Appleton tavern owner, who identified three picture magazines he said he purchased for $2 each from The Book Seller March 21.

Look at Magazines The jury got its first extended look at the three magazines — and at others introduced into the trial of an Appleton book store operator charged with selling obscene magazines.

Neenah Council Okays City Hall Pay Proposal

NEENAH — A comprehensive plan which minimizes seniority as a criteria for promotions and wage increases has been adopted by the city council.

The plan, devised and recommended by Griffenhagen-Kroeger Inc., a Chicago-based administrative personnel study firm, places each city employee in a job classification and sets growth rates and salary ranges for each class.

On the recommendation of the finance committee, the new pay plan will go into effect on Jan. 1, but will not apply to employees represented by authorized bargaining groups, unless they decide they want to be put under it.

Employee's Value

The main principle of the salary plan is that growth, stability and performance all are considered in determining an employee's value to the city.

Matt Golden, who drafted the plan, wrote, "Many public agencies have attempted to combine all the factors into a pay plan which makes no distinction between differences in the amount of possible growth in different classes, gives little or no recognition to differences in individual performances and places a high premium on tenure."

He said his plan was an effort to minimize and even eliminate tenure as a consideration for pay increases and promotion.

In their demands presented a week ago, city firemen said they wanted seniority to be the sole base for promotions.

Another concept of the plan concerns certain positions throughout the city administration which have the same duties and responsibilities. For example, a secretary, whether she is working in the park and recreation department or police department, does basically the same job.

Based on this premise, Golden put each city position into a classification. He made it clear that it was the position which

$2.1 Million Neenah Council OK's Improvement Funds

NEENAH — The council Wednesday night voted unanimously to adopt a 1970 capital improvements program which will involve spending totaling $2,129,000.

The program had been recommended by the capital improvements committee which had compiled a long-range program for $20.5 million in capital spending to be spread over the next seven years.

The 1970 program places primary emphasis on sewers and sewage treatment, with secondary spending going into redevelopment, the street paving program and the public schools.

Earmarked for next year is some $886,500 for sewers.

The two major areas to be worked on are extending the city's storm sewer system into the Oak, Chestnut and Washington Street areas and a total of $161,200 has been put aside for additions and improvements to the sewage treatment plant.

Another $125,000 was estimated for a 60-inch storm sewer in the Brooks and Bell Street area.

Street Paving

The programs estimates the 1970 street paving program at $340,000 with half coming from special assessments and the other half from a general obligation bond.

Of the total $2.2 million planned program nearly two-thirds will be financed through general obligation bonds.

The redevelopment program, estimated at $425,000 for 1970, will be paid for largely from $350,000 in bonds plus another $75,000 in short term loans.

40 Students Suspended At Neenah High School

NEENAH — Forty students have been suspended from Neenah High School until Monday after they skipped Wednesday morning classes to march in protest against the Vietnam War.

During an all-school assembly Wednesday afternoon, Alvin Long, principal, said he respects students who stand up for what they believe, but he could not admire the manner in which some 51 students got their point across that morning.

"Good Common Sense"

Before announcing the disciplinary action, Long said that the majority of students at the high school are to be complimented for their "good common sense."

"I'm asking that the student body continue to act as individuals for what you believe to be right, honest and decent, but I ask you do this in a way that is fair, decent, honest, proper and right," he said.

The students who took part in the March walked to Menasha High School and St. Mary High School "shouting and causing a disturbance," he said. These students spent 1½ hours at the two schools "making it difficult for those buildings to have school."

Return in Buses

Long said that most of the students were bused back to Neenah High where he met with them and then called their parents. The principal noted he would be meeting with the parents during the coming week to determine the manner in which the students are going to conduct themselves during the remainder of the school year.

He also added that more students may be suspended.

While a couple of Menasha High students joined the marchers for a while, there was little support for the march from both Menasha high schools.

According to spokesmen for the group, about 100 students approached the Neenah school

Park Flowers to Miss 'Patch'

MENASHA — The many admirers of floral beauty at Smith Park will miss Sylvester Patchkotski.

"Patch," as he's affectionately known to fellow park department workers and floral aficionados, has been the diligent guardian of the 20 flower beds that dot Smith Park for 13 years.

But he recently announced he plans to retire after this year.

"When I leave here, I don't want to see any more flowers," Patch remarked in a joking mood. But he admits he's probably fooling himself when he remembers how it is each winter when he spends three months away from the park.

In the 13 years as gardener at Smith Park, "Patch" has never missed one minute of work. He has the best attendance record any park department employee ever had.

"Maybe after I'm away from it long enough, I'll miss it," he reflects.

Patch has made the morning and afternoon walk to and from the Hotel Menasha, where he lives, ever since he began as a grass cutter for the park department 13 years ago.

He was soon given the gardening duties, however, and learned as much as he could about a subject he had never thought about before through books picked up at the library.

Most Beautiful

"I've been taught to work hard all my life," Patch says as he continues working.

The Smith Park flower gardens under Patch have become among the most beautiful in the area, with the arrangements of zinnias, salvias, petunias, marigolds and others attracting attention all over the world.

"About seven or eight of us do the planting in the spring," he said, "but I take care of most of it the rest of the year."

Trimming, watering, fertilizing and all the other requirements of a beautiful flower garden have been carried out with unerring diligence by the 62-year-old gardener for years.

"I've met people from pretty near half the states in this park," Patch recalls. And the talkative gardener must have told them all he could about the floral arrangements in Smith Park, for next to gardening, he likes to talk with people.

No Better Gardener

Park department employees will tell you there's no better gardener around than Patch, and no one who takes more pride in his work than the man who came from the mills of Menasha to the park department in 1956.

It has hurt Patch when visitors have torn up the floral splendor of Smith Park.

"If I could just remember and write a book on what I've seen here in the last 13 years, people wouldn't believe me," he said.

"It bothers a guy when he works all day, five days a week, to get them looking nice and then have things like that happen," he says.

Clayton Addition Gets Preliminary Approval

NEENAH — The fiscal control body Wednesday night gave the board of education the green light to start site preparation for the new high school, plus hiring an architect to design a seven-room addition to Clayton School.

Carl Schleck, speaking for the board of education, said the site work, estimated at $32,500, was being asked so the construction schedule, now two months behind, could be met.

$200,000 Project

He said the fall site work would recover about a month in the schedule which calls for the school opening in time for the 1971-72 school year. If the work could be done this fall, contractors could start on construction in the spring and not be delayed by the normal spring rains, he added.

The seven rooms plus a library at Clayton School is expected to cost about $200,000. Schleck said the board had decided to try a steel building construction to see how it works out.

Donald Scott, superintendent of schools, said the extra rooms would be needed within a year to meet increasing enrollments.

He said the only two alternatives to adding the seven rooms were transporting students or renting extra space to house the elementary students.

According to Schleck, the board was asking for authority to hire an architect to conduct a feasibility study of the steel building concept, and to proceed with final plans and specifications.

Today's Prosperity Far More Than Skin Deep

BY SYLVIA PORTER

When the stock market convulsion 40 years ago climaxed in the crash of October, 1929, it did not set off the world's most cataclysmic depression — as most of you probably were taught in school. What that crackup did was belatedly recognize and then horribly intensify a depression that had long been in the making.

On the surface, the economy of the 1920s looked great. I suppose, but the glitter was mostly phony, the prosperity was gold-plated. For beneath the overall statistics, were these dangerous trends. Personal incomes were being concentrated more and more at the very top — with the share of the nation's income going to the top 1 per cent of Americans actually rising by half between 1920 and 1929. The increase in wages and salaries was lagging far behind the increase in the productivity of workers and the climb in corporation profits, in rents, in interest. Our population growth was slowing markedly. Farm prices were in a prolonged slump. In the late 1920s the housing and major durable goods industries went into a dive.

It was against this classic background for a business downturn that the stock market went into the wildest upsurge on the thinnest of credit margins in history. What would have been a routine recession was delayed and then turned into an economic catastrophe.

Today, in another October, our national policies are deliberately geared to slowing down the economy and curbing the price-wage spiral. There is undoubtedly a risk of over-kill in the combination of credit and tax restraints. While inflation persists at an intolerable pace, many are worrying that the boom which began in February, 1961, will not last to see its ninth birthday. It is not the most reassuring of patterns, by any yardstick.

Today, we are a middle-income nation without parallel. The income pyramid of 1929 is inverting with the vast majority in the middle-higher income brackets and a shrinking minority at the lower income levels. By 1980, more than half of American families will have incomes of $10,000 or over.

Wages and salaries are in an upswing and until recently the spurt in workers' "real" incomes was outpacing the rise in just about everything else. Now inflation is erasing the value of the extra dollars but surely today's rate of erosion will not last.

Were it not for the credit squeeze, housing would be in an all-out boom. But this squeeze is merely guaranteeing an explosion in housing later in the 1970s — and of course with this will come a spurt in everything that goes into and outside of houses.

We have a vast variety of recession-cushioning laws: unemployment insurance, minimum wage levels, Social Security, bank insurance, etc., etc. None of these cushions was in existence in '29.

And we are entering a decade of great expansion. Assuming no more "Vietnams" but a world of uneasy peace and assuming sufficient social stability to permit just normal economic growth, our production of goods and services will zoom to nearly $2,000,000,000,000 (trillion!) by 1980 against $900 billion-plus now.

Our population will climb from today's 200 million mark to 240-245 million. Our income per person will jump by about 45 per cent. Our buying of autos will zoom from 1969's 9 million plus to 1980's average 14 to 15 million. So it goes, if all we have is normal growth.

Behind 1929's market was economic rot, a steady shrinkage in the buying power of the majority and a basic bias toward deflation. Behind 1969's market is economic expansion, a steady swelling in the buying power of the majority and a basic bias toward inflation.

I am hardly arguing that stock market slumps won't happen. Witness this year's "blood bath." I am saying that the American economy on the threshold of the '70s bears little resemblance to the American economy on the threshold of the '30s.

'Oliver', 'La Boheme' Prove Musical Worth

Productions Show Enduring Appeal of Words Set to Music

BY JINGO

Long live the musical. Whether on stage or screen, the play with music maintains its astonishing, and well deserved, popularity.

In recent months, Fox Cities theatergoers have been treated to a good many fine examples of the genre — the Riverside Players' production of "Most Happy Fella"; the Bruch Repertory Players' "Roar of the Greasepaint"; at Oshkosh, and the two simultaneous (and sold out) "Mames", at Appleton and DePere.

But the end of summer hasn't meant an end to "the sound of music" in Fox Valley theaters. "Oliver!", Lionel Bart's superlative translation of Charles Dickens' "Oliver Twist", has proved so popular at Appleton's Cinema I that the engagement has been extended through Nov. 4.

And just two evenings ago, Milwaukee's Skylight Comic Opera Ltd. presented an accomplished English-language version of Puccini's "La Boheme" in the Fine Arts Theatre of the Fox Valley Center UWGB.

Many Skills

An opera like "La Boheme" can't, of course, be lumped with the modern musical comedy as an art form. But, like most contemporary musical productions, it represents a combination of skills — singing, acting, set and lighting design and instrumental performance.

In another day, perhaps "Oliver!" would have been an opera. As such, it might have been different — but it could scarcely have been better.

Director Carol Reed and choreographer Onna White have given the story of Oliver, Fagin and their friends a marvellously fluid staging; time and again the action dissolves into dance and song with scarcely a hesitation and none of the illogical transitions that have plagued so many lesser musical films.

Little Mark Lester and the talented Jack Wild are perfectly cast as the orphaned Oliver and his thieving pal, The Artful Dodger. Ron Moody displays enormous range as the villainous Fagin, the fence who employs a houseful of youthful pickpockets, and Oliver Reed is thoroughly ruthless and menacing as Fagin's star pupil, Bill Sykes. Newcomer Shani Wallis rounds out the principals as Nancy, and her rendition of "As Long As He Needs Me" is a highlight of the film.

Fine Production

But it is the production itself that dominates "Oliver!" Nineteenth-century England is superbly conjured up in a sequence of magnificent sets by production designer John Box and his crops of construction assistants. "Oliver!" richly deserves all the honors it has received — it is perfect popular entertainment.

On a much smaller scale, but commendable in its own field, is the touring version of "La Boheme" being taken throughout the state by the Skylight opera company. The show, seen Tuesday at the Fox Valley Center, will be repeated at Green Bay, Oct. 18; Marinette, Oct. 19; Kohler, Oct. 22; Wausau, Oct. 24, and Baraboo, Oct. 25.

The traveling production, with an ingeniously designed series of sets by producer-designer Clair Richardson, is favored with an accomplished cast — Alan Rogers as the poet, Rodolfo; Mary Stewart as his consumptive Mimi, and Patricia Nelson as the fickle Musetta, among others.

Stage Father Pays Visit to Al Mundy

BY TV SCOUT

Fred Astair makes his debut on It Takes a Thief as casual, suave Alastair Mundy, formerly Le Panther, the father of Al Mundy and swashbuckler who's handy to have on your side. The story is about a Communist plot to undermine the American economy by investing in the stock market. There's a billion in gold set aside for that. The climax of the show, involving Astaire in games of chemin de fer and pool, and son Al (Robert Wagner) in the business of removing the gold — 9-10 (Channel 1-9)

8-10 (Channel 2-7) — "Inside Daisy Clover" on The Thursday Night Movie is not a bad picture for your living room. Natalie Wood stars as the gamine risen to movie star with Robert Redford and Christopher Plummer very good as two of the men in her life. Ruth Gordon is also on hand briefly to give one of her very memorable characterizations.

7:30-8:30 (Channel 5) — The detective work on Ironside is good as Mark is shot while taking his boss to an Amateur Chefs of America luncheon. At first, Ironside figures he was the intended victim. Then it occurs to him that Mark himself might really have been the target. But why? What does he know?

8-9 (Channel 11-9) — Anthony Newley joins his fellow Britisher on This Is Tom Jones. He sings four of his own songs (including a clever arrangement of "Pop Goes the Weasel") and later Tom joins him for three more Newley songs. Peggy Lipton, of "The Mod Squad" sings "A Natural Woman" and Crosby, Stills, Nash and Young sing a pair of their hits.

6:30-7:30 (Channel 5) — Rosy Grier is introduced on Daniel Boone as Bage Cooper, a former slave who is now a Tuscarora chief named Canawachagaquo, or Thunder Cloud. He is pressed into reluctant service by Dan'l, to whom he owes his freedom. The mission is to capture the cannon on a British fort. They are joined by a British deserter, a self-proclaims coward and a felon, survivors of another fort burned by the Indians.

7-8 (Channel 2-7) — The Jim Nabors Hour welcomes Wayne Newton who teams with Jim for a very clever medley of sound-alike songs. He also sings "Blowin' in the Wind" and "For Once in My Life" and joins Jim and Ronnie Schell in a skit about a tired star (Newton) who just wants to get some sleep in his hotel.

7:30-8 (Channel 1-19) — A boy is born to the Stephens, on Bewitched, but whether or not he will turn out to be a warlock is left for a future episode. Here Maurice Evans, as Samantha's father, pops in to see his grandchild. He also casts a spell on everyone who looks at the tot will fall in love.

9-10 (Channel 5) — There is plenty of comedy on The Dean Martin Show with George Burns, Orson Bean and Jack Gilford vying for laughs. Joey Heatherton is around to wiggle and sing and the Mills Brothers sing "Bye By Blackbird" and join Dino for "You're Nobody 'Til Somebody Loves You."

Aga Khan Will Marry Oct. 28

PARIS (AP) — The Aga Khan, spiritual leader of 20 million Moslems and one of the world's richest men, will marry Lady Sarah Crichton Stuart, a London socialite, in Paris Oct. 28.

The prince's secretary announced the wedding date Wednesday. Their engagement was announced a week ago. The Aga Khan is 32. Lady Sarah is 29.

With Tic-Tac-Toe Checkers

BY CAPPY DICK
By following today's fun-project directions for boys and girls, four games of tick-tack-toe can be played at one time on a checkerboard.
First cut four frames out of thin cardboard (figure 1), making the opening in each Place the four frames on the checkerboard, creating four tick-tack-toe playing areas.

The game is for two players. One chooses to use black checkers; the other uses the reds.
The game begins with the first player (using the blacks) placing one checker in any square in the first playing area. The second player (using the reds) places one of his checkers in any square of the second playing area. The first player now places a black checker on any square of his choice in the third area and the second player places a red checker in any square of his choice in the fourth playing area.
The players now may place one checker at a time on any of the four playing areas, each trying to block the other from completing a row as in regular tick-tack-toe. The playing continues until all four games have been concluded.

LONDON (AP) — American millionaire Franklyn L. Blower has solved the problem of what to buy his friends for Christmas. He's giving each a London taxi—a total of 32 cars.

And a special friend will receive a 1932 London fire engine, complete with bells and ladders. The whole consignment cost Jacksonville, Fla., $48,000.

Derek Hawkins, owner of a London motor business who sold Blower, a glass importer from the cabs, said: "Blower paid us a call when he was over recently looking for unusual Christmas presents."

Bing Expected To Play Against Bucks Saturday

DETROIT (AP)—Dave Bing, star guard of the Detroit Pistons, was reported Wednesday to have shown remarkable recovery from knee surgery, and will accompany the team for its National Basketball Association season-opener in Milwaukee Saturday.

Bing underwent knee surgery three weeks ago for removal of bone chips.
The Pistons anticipated using him at Milwaukee, but would open with Howard Komives and Jimmy Walker at guards.

'It's Great,' Says Hampton of Pro Game

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — "I'm finding out what pro football is all about. And it's great."

Dave Hampton, at his leisure during a brief lunch break Wednesday, said it with a competitive gleam in the eye.
The Packers National Football League rivals, in turn, are fast becoming acquainted with the rocket-like rookie and the statistics suggest they should be equally impressed.

Hampton, perhaps the most gifted ninth round draft choice in NFL annals, leads the league in kickoff return after four games, for example, with an average of 36 yards for 5 runbacks.

Leading Scorer
He also is the Packers leading scorer with 18 points, although he has played less than half the available time on offense. One of his three touchdowns came on a 87-yard excursion with a 49er kickoff.

Hampton, whose speed and versatility could make him a prominent figure in Sunday's showdown with the Rams at Los Angeles, likewise ranks a strong third among the Packer rushers, despite the fact he has carried the ball just 24 times, for a net of 115 yards. And he owns the best average among the Packer regularly employed runners, a fat 4.8.
In addition, the footloose freshman is tied for second among Packer receivers with 7 catches for 112 yards for a team leading average of 16.0 and two touchdowns.

One of those seven receptions came at a particularly opportune juncture in Detroit last Sunday afternoon, carrying the Packers 50 yards to the Lion one-yard line, from where Hampton bolted into the end zone with an all-important insurance TD.

Second Backfield
Generally paired with the veteran Elijah Pitts in the Bay's second backfield unit, the former University of Wyoming athlete has averaged an imposing 11.3 yards for the 36 times he has handled the ball.

Although he has brought great natural assets to his Packer assignment, Hampton insists he hasn't done it all alone.
"All the backs have been a big help to me," he said, "and so has coach Bratkowski."
Zeke gives you a good outline of what you're supposed to do and helps you concentrate.

Bratkowski, who has impressed veteran observers with his skill as a first-year coach, returns the compliment.
"Dave is a fine young man," the Pack's erstwhile super sub says. "He's intelligent — He's adapted to our offense and passing game extremely well. We tested him, as we did all the backs, each week during training camp and he did well every time."
"He really does a good job on

Homecoming game, while the Zephyrs travel to Fond du Lac Springs for an evening skirmish.

The first time the Lancers of Delafield St. John encountered a Fox Cities area foe this season, it turned out to be an exceedingly painful experience. Unbeaten Chilton powered to a 73-0 victory. The Tigers stopped the academy's running star Reggie Johnson, cold.

In the preceding game, however, Johnson had run for three touchdowns and rushed for 248 yards against Brookfield Academy in the team's only win.

Lose 3 Others

The Lancers have lost to Chicago's Walter Lutheran, Waterford High and Burlington St. Mary, in plays that have provoked the gag-line that "God is a Mets fan."

The Hawks, who played to an 8-8 deadlock with Wisconsin Rapids Assumption in their first non-loop tussle before reeling off five successive league wins will shoot a balanced attack at the Lancers. In league play, the Hawks have rushed for 712 yards and passed for 419 — and their total offense is topped only by Roncalli and Premontre.

Ted Wenning, who directs the Xavier attack continues to be the FVCC's most accurate passer. He has completed 22 of 41 for 354 yards. His leading target, Nick Heinritz, has pulled in 11 passes for 172 yards and three touchdowns. Ed Wenning has been on the receiving end of four TD strikes.

Gary Nack, the Hawks' leading rusher, has gained 247 yards in 56 league carries and has tallied three TDs.

Seeks 500 Mark

Little Chute St. John will seek to gain the 500 level in league play in its game against always dangerous-Marquette. The Chuters will use their new offensive alignment featuring Chris Hartjes.

Five Schools Accepted in New CW Loop

Five schools have been officially accepted as members of the new Central Wisconsin Conference for the 1970-71 season and a sixth is expected to be added soon.

Schools accepted at a meeting held in Marion Wednesday included Little Chute, Shiocton, Manawa, Wittenberg and Marion.

Iola-Scandinavia, which had been invited as a member, refused and plans to join the Central States Conference.

Both Bonduel and Wautoma also have been extended invitations and it is expected that one of these will join at the next meeting Nov. 12 at Marion.

By MIKE RATHET

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Mets went into today's fifth game of the World Series on the threshold of their first world championship—and nothing about the amazing Mets is more amazing than the way they finally got both feet on the doorstep to the throne room.

For the implausible champions of the National League got there Wednesday on a double lost in the sun, a bunt that didn't roll 10 feet and a wild throw toward first. That combination gave the Mets a 10th-inning run and a 2-1 victory over Baltimore's befuddled Orioles.

So the Mets, who turned the baseball world upside down this year by making the final team standings look topsy-turvy, took a 3-1 edge over the heavily favored Orioles and the opportunity to wrap up the Series today in front of Shea Stadium's banner-bearing fans.

Amazing Transaction
Once holders of the world record for ineptness, the Mets have made the amazing transition to the top on a combination of solid pitching, timely hitting — and plays that have provoked the gag-line that "God is a Mets fan."

Look what happened in that almost unbelievable 10th-inning when the Orioles handed them the keys to the throne room.

It began when catcher Jerry Grote sent a short fly to left that was ticketed for an out.

"I thought the ball was hit harder than it was," said left fielder Don Buford, "and I broke back to keep from giving up an extra base hit. Then I lost the ball in the glare and didn't pick it up until it got above the sun."

By that time, only shortstop Mark Belanger had a shot at the falling fly as he raced toward

Rod Gaspar went in to run for Grote and Al Weis was given an intentional walk.

At this juncture, it was time for some strategy, and it's possible that the loss of Manager Earl Weaver—in the third inning he became the first manager ejected from a World Series game in 34 years—may have contributed to what followed.

That may never be known. What is known is that coach Billy Hunter, who took over for Weaver, ordered pitcher Dick Hall to issue an intentional walk to Al Weis and then brought in Pete Richert to pitch to pinch hitter J.C. Martin.

Martin's orders from Manager Gil Hodges were simple: Bunt—and keep it down the first base line away from Brooks Robinson, the Orioles' brilliant third baseman. Martin complied on the first pitch, the ball trickling to the lip of the infield grass.

Now Gaspar was running and

Winning Run Produces a Controversy

NEW YORK (AP) — The play that beat them in the fourth game may turn out to be just what we need to get started again," said Baltimore pitcher Pete Richert Wednesday night hours after the Mets had won 2-1 in 10 innings to take a commanding 3-1 lead in the best-of-7 series.

"I'm going to hang this Associated Press photo in the clubhouse today and it might be just what we need to get started again," said Baltimore pitcher Pete Richert Wednesday night hours after the Mets had won 2-1 in 10 innings to take a commanding 3-1 lead in the best-of-7 series.
The play that produced the winning Met run came with two on and none out. Pinch hitter J.C. Martin bunted in front of the plate. Richert dashed off the mound, grabbed the ball and tried to first base. The ball hit Martin on the left wrist and bounced away for an error, permitting pinch runner Rod Gaspar to score from second.

Inside Line
Few in the crowd of 57,367 noted at the time that Martin was running on the inside of the foul line in violation of rule 6.05 and that therefore the Mets won the game on an illegal play.
It was not until an Associated Press photo showed Martin running on the inside of the foul line that a controversy developed at press headquarters and continued far into the night.
The picture showed Martin a few steps from first base, with the ball, thrown by Richert, in currently lead the CWC with a 2-0-1 record, the only blot being a scoreless tie with Little Chute.

Initial Triumph
The Wolves will not be able to let up against the Indians who came through with a 20-14 win over Marion for their initial conference triumph.

Little Chute may be stepping into a "Lions' den" when it visits Lomira for a night game. The Lions were the state's No. 2-ranked small school last season and have two second team all-state players back. Lomira has a 5-1-1 record to date and are 3-1-1 in the Tri-County Conference.

The Lions have scored victories over Campbellsport, Random Lake, St. Lawrence Seminary, Winnebago Lutheran and Hustisdorf. The only loss was to Brandon-Rosendale and Lomira was tied by Oakfield.

"We should be doing better than we have been," Coach John Doyle, of the Lions, said. "We

Rosie Eckes pounded a 620 "Corky" Behrent 331, Marion Lappen 542, Letha Broehm 212-530, Ruth Schmidt 529, Elaine Schmidt 201; Pat Wojahn 203, Ruth Zittlow 212 and Lois Schmidt 200.

Miss Eckes had games of 198, 210 and 212 on her way to the national set which was the first of her career. She is in her sixth year of league bowling.

The previous high series for Rosie was 575 hit two years ago. She went through the three games with all strikes and spares right up to the last ball when she blew.

Miss Eckes competes in the Hit 'n Miss League on Tuesday night's and the Classic League on Wednesday. She carries an average around the 148 mark. Rosie is employed in the treasurer's office at the Outagamie County Courthouse.

Hits 236 Game

A share of the honors in the Classic loop went to Pat Hooyman for her 236 game and she finished with a 538 series.

Evelyn Myers came within one pin of recording her second national set of the season as she cracked a 599 which included a 220 singleton. Joan Kolosso, who hit a national set Monday night at Sabre Lanes, had another good night in the Classic loop with a 581 series, including a 200 line.

Kathy Sodermark slammed 574 with a 202, Karen Dix had 220-572, Marvis Bubolz rolled 217-205 and 578 and Jerry Erb had a 565 series with games of 200 and 206.

Other top scores from the Classic League included Elsie Seeley 202-539, Fritzie Meyers 202-537, Mary Ellen Schmidt 534, ton.

Knicks Spoil Cousy's NBA Coaching Debut

Wes Unseld is picking up where he left off a year ago, but Bob Cousy is looking forward to a fresh start.

Unseld, Rookie of the Year and the Most Valuable Player in the NBA last season, scored only 10 points Wednesday night — but eight of them came in the last period to guide Baltimore to a come-from-behind 98-93 opening success over the Chicago Bulls.

The New York Knicks, meanwhile, came up with a closing rally to sidetrack Cincinnati 94-89.

Unseld drew four fouls during the opening period and sat on the bench during the second and third while Chicago was taking a 76-70 lead.

But his hot late shooting, along with help from Earl

Monroe and Gus Johnson, powered the Bulls to an 84-79 lead with 3:47 left.

Monroe led the Bulls with 26 points and Johnson had 16 and Jerry Sloan scored 21 for the Bulls.

New York, picking up its second victory in as many nights, held a 52-42 halftime command before the scrambling Royals slapped on a full court press in the third period. The Royals forced four quick turnovers and Tom Van Arsdale hit four baskets as Cincinnati took a 65-64 lead heading into the final session.

But Cazzie Russell kept the Knicks alive with nine points in the fourth quarter, and in the final minute Willis Reed's first shot, Reed's field goal and a free throw by Walt Frazier then put it out of reach.

Atlanta had a 112-87 advantage with 7:02 left when Coach Richie Guerin went to his bench and Seattle suddenly got hot behind John Tresvant and Bob Rule, trimming the lead to 118-115 with less than two minutes left. But the Sonics never got closer than that the rest of the game.

Swingers, Classic Tennis Leagues Launch Seasons

Stuart McIntyre and Dick Ostberg went three sets (1-6, 6-1, 6-3) to beat Robert Ryan and Frank Parsons Wednesday as the Swingers Tennis League season opened at the Fox Cities Racquet club.

In the other match, Ed Ernest and Joe Ferris beat Frank Hardt and Dave Hardt, 6-3 and 6-4.

In the opening session of the Tuesday Night Classic League, three matches were played.

Russ Russler and Dr. Jack Anderson defeated James Hammond and Bro. Leo Kraft, 6-2, 6-2. George Mills and Del Hoeffner stopped Rick Hardt and Heath Reeve, 9-7 and 6-2. Art Remley and Dave Lincoln won, 5-7, 6-2 and 6-4, over Chuck Schuman and John Lindberg.

Mike Court Sets Pace In Qualifying Bowling For Match Game Meet

After the first round of qualifying for the second annual Appleton Bowling Association Match Game Championships, Mike Court is setting the pace with a 4-game series total of 869.

The second weekend of qualifying will be Saturday and Sunday at the 41 Bowl to determine the final 12 positions.

Following Court in the present standings are Bill Swanson with 813 and Bill Herbst with 796.

Terror Harriers Hand Kimberly 17-40 Setback

Appleton West's cross country team defeated Kimberly, 17 to 40, Tuesday at Sunset Park.

The Terrors took the first four places, with Steve Dercks (10:46) edging Mike Moriarty (10:47) for the top spot. Jim Hinnenthal and Dick Schoenbohm were third and fourth, respectively.

West won the JV meet, 23-32, with Lyon Dilley, of the Junior Terrors, the individual winner.

Mets Capture Third Straight

two Orioles—Richert and catcher Ellie Hendricks—were racing toward the ball, brushing against each other in the indecision of the moment.

"I called for the ball all the way," Hendricks said, "and maybe Pete did too. But with all the crowd noise, I don't know. The play was out in front of me."

It was out in front of a record crowd of 57,387 too, and they yelled and shouted and cheered as Richert grabbed the ball, hurried his throw and hit Martin in the left wrist. The ball ricocheted into the first base hole while Gaspar raced home with the winning run.

The responses to what had just happened varied:

"The ball just happened to hit J.C.," said the cool Hodges. "I'm glad it did."

"I hope," said Richert, "his wrist's broken."

"I don't even know who threw the ball," said Martin, "but he made a good play because the ball had back spin. I knew they had no play so my job was to get to first. The ball hit me on the left wrist."

"I didn't see the play, said Gaspar. "I got a very bad jump. I thought they held the ball and we had the bases loaded. Then I saw it roll away and knew they had no way of getting me."

"I was running with him down the line," said third base coach Eddie Yost. "I think I could have beat him to the plate, was so excited. But I stopped three-quarters of the way and watched him go the rest of the way."

Now the Mets have a chance to go the rest of the way today with Jerry Koosman, the second game winner, against Dave McNally. Koosman needed one out relief help to win that one with a two-hitter after the Orioles won the opener by beating Tom Seaver.

Seaver got his opportunity to get even in the fourth game and did by limiting the Orioles to six

Koosman Still Has Chance To Make Boast Come True

NEW YORK (AP)—Jerry Koosman's astonishing pre-World Series prediction was a four-game sweep for the New York Mets.

The Mets lost the Series opener at Baltimore last Saturday, but Koosman, their strapping southpaw pitching ace, still had a chance today to make good his boast.

"Yes, I remember distinctly predicting four straight," said Koosman, who went after the Series clincher in a mound matchup against Orioles left-hander Dave McNally. "But I didn't say the first four. I just said four straight."

Koosman beat McNally 2-1 last Sunday at Baltimore, holding the Orioles hitless for six innings as the Mets squared the Series at one game apiece.

Throwing Error

They won 5-0 Tuesday at Shea Stadium and then squeezed out a 2-1 10-inning victory Wednesday on Jerry Grote's pop fly double, pinch hitter J.C. Martin's sacrifice bunt and a throwing error by relief pitcher Pete Richert.

"I think we can beat 'em tomorrow," said Koosman, surrounded by newsmen in a cor-

Boushele Jolts 278 Gordon Newhouse Hits 670 Series

Gordon Newhouse blasted a 255 game and 670 series in the Big Eight League at the Village Lanes, Little Chute, Wednesday night to feature area bowling.

The counts were the highest in the league this season and Newhouse strung together four strikes in a row on two occasions in the high game while adding a pair of spares.

Top single game recorded in the Fox Cities Wednesday night was the booming 278 rolled by Don Boushele in the Fox Valley Classic League at Lakeroad Lanes, Neenah.

Leading series in the Fox Valley circuit was a 637 by Ed Schroeder which included a 245 game Boushele finished with a 593 series while Arlyn Pues rolled 239-627. Hub Hielsberg had 618 and Bill Berndt smacked 604.

Armstrong Hits 625

Bob Armstrong jolted a 234 game and 625 series to set the pace in the Fox Valley League at Sabre Lanes last night.

In the Veterans League at the 41 Bowl, Jerry Trudell rolled a 235 game and 620 series. Gary Hannemann took a share of the honors as he also hit a 235 game and other top counts included a 232 line by Art Rhode and series of 593 by Bob Wogslund and 582 by Frank Kroiss, Sr.

Glen Jansen slammed a 242 game and 612 series to lead the action in the American Legion League at the Little Chute Recreation Lanes last night. Jack Neisz came through with a 235 singleton.

Neenah Runners Top Manitowoc, Appleton East

NEENAH — The Neenah High School cross country team avenged its loss to Manitowoc in the recent conference meet by scoring 37 points to Manty's 43 and 44 by Appleton East on the Riverside park course Wednesday afternoon.

Manitowoc used only seniors in its lineup, with three varsity runners competing with the jayvees but the Rockets were minus regulars George Steed and Larry Schloemer because of illness.

First place went to Fox River Valley Conference champion Doug Breczynski, of Manitowoc, in record time of 10:11. Don Gullikson of Neenah was second.

Leading patriot finishers were —Werner, third, Luke De Young, eighth and Dan Birk, ninth.

NOTES and NOTIONS

With upsets and ill-advised hunches both taking their toll, this corner's predictions performance bogged to 70 per cent (28 right, 12 wrong) last week. Our season-long average dipped to .759 (145-46-8). Another interesting — to say the least — weekend lies ahead.

Packers over Rams — Having made the wrong Packer picks two weeks in a row, we could well make it three, since LA will no doubt rule as favorite. The Packers, though, have the kind of game that usually bores the Rams — and, after last year's hard-to-take loss in the final 55 seconds, the Rams could be due for a break. It should develop into another game to remember.

Wisconsin over Northwestern — I've also been wrong on Badger games for the last two weeks, so maybe the third time will be the charm. The Badgers have finally built up some confidence after three years — and, besides, they made a better showing against UCLA, the only common foe for NU and UW.

Lawrence over Ripon — On paper, the Vikes have the edge, defensively and offensively. However, this kind of a paper advantage is often scorched in this hot rivalry. If the Vikes buckle down for the full 60 minutes to play the kind of ball they're capable of, they should take it.

PLATTEVILLE, WIS. (AP) — An autopsy has disclosed that a freshman on Platteville State's football team who collapsed Tuesday during a practice session died of acute pneumonia.

The examination on Steve Schoenecker, 18, was conducted by Grant county coroner Dr. Leo Becker and a team physician.

Polar Bear JVs Edge FVL, 6-0 — Rick Bartel scored on a 38-yard run in the second period to give the Hortonville High School junior varsity a 6-0 victory over Fox Valley Lutheran Wednesday.

The Foxes threatened in the fourth quarter, driving to the Polar Bear 18, but lost the ball on downs.

The loss gives the Foxes a 1-2 record for the season and the next game will be Monday at Little Chute St. John.

As a ball-carrier in his first full-time stint as a running back, last Saturday, Hartjes scored five touchdowns to move into second place in league scoring behind Roncalli's Terry Warden.

Hartjes, who has also caught eight passes—to tie for fifth place in the circuit—combines with Gary Vandehey to form a 1-2 rushing threat. Vandehey ranks sixth in league rushing, with 264 yards in 89 tries.

Marinette will send the league's No. 2 rusher against the Dutchmen. He is Paul Tiedtke, who has rolled up 408 yards in 85 carries.

The Chuters have averaged 12.6 points and 162 yards per league game, while giving up 20 points and 231 yards. Marinette has posted 13 points and 198 yards, or the average while yielding 17.5 points and 203.5 yards.

St. Mary's Zephyrs go after their first victory, figuring to rely rather heavily on their aerial game. Chuck Johnson has completed 29 of 59 for 280 of the 319 yards St. Mary has gained through the air. The Zephyrs have three receivers—Tom Funk, Steve Kees and Bob Lotzer among the league's top 12.

St. Mary's ground game, one of the FVCC's most productive, is led by Steve Schwartz, who ranks third in the league.

tra-city battle and it's also East's homecoming."

While the two Appleton schools go at each other tooth-and-nail, attention around the FRVC will continue to focus on the circuit's three unbeaten teams—Fond du Lac, Green Bay East, and Oshkosh—all 6-0.

Oshkosh, still the No. 1-ranked squad in the state, has a comparative breather at home against Sheboygan South (1-5). But even the mighty Indians can't afford to be complacent. As Oshkosh nearly stumbled before tipping Neenah, 8-0, last week, the Redmen were posting their first win, 22-0, over Green Bay Southwest.

Fondy and GBE, rated fourth and sixth, respectively, in the latest big school poll, will be in faster company than Oshkosh and could be ripe for upsets.

The Cardinals, coming off a 9-7 squeaker over Manitowoc last week, journey to explosive Sheboygan North (4-2) Saturday while the Red Devils, recent 26-0 victors over Appleton East, pay a visit to Preble (5-1) Friday night.

Rockets at Southwest — Neenah, which slipped to a 2-4 mark with its loss to Oshkosh, hits the road to Green Bay Southwest (1-4-1) Friday night. The Trojans will be seeking to bounce back from their debacle against South.

"We were respectable in the Oshkosh game, and our kids played closer to their abilities," Neenah coach Ben Meixl said Wednesday, hoping for insight into his team's upcoming performance.

In relation to Southwest, Meixl explained: "We don't know a lot about them, but they can play a well-balanced game and on occasion they like to throw a lot."

One of Meixl's problems will be filling positions where injuries have left holes. "I might have to replace a guard, Tom Forcay for one," he said.

The remaining tilt in the league sends Green Bay West (2-4) to Manitowoc (1-4-1) in a Saturday afternoon encounter.

Lead Series, 2-0 — Appleton East will hold a 2-0 edge in the series against Appleton West when the two teams tangle Saturday. The Patriots won at home in 1967 after scoring two touchdowns in the second half, 2-7, and again last year, 28-6, at the Terrors' home Witte Field as Gary Gee ran for two scores.

Statistically, there is little to choose between the rivals. On offense, East ranks no better than 11th in the conference in yards gained with 680 (437 through the air) and West is in the basement with 676 (345 on the ground).

positions West has yielded a total of 1,581 yards for 11th place and East is last with 1,787 yards allowed.

In terms of points scored, the two are tied with 38. West has given up 156 to East's 181, however.

Best Practices — Prust is optimistic about East's notching a third straight victory. "The practices we've had this week have been the best all season," he explained. "I think we've finally got this thing together, not just for the rest of this year but maybe for next year, too." Only four of the top 22 Patriots are seniors.

East will be guided by quarterback Scott Smith, a junior who has moved into the job since Jeff Mueller hurt a knee. Mueller has gradually gotten back into shape and will be available for duty Saturday.

Smith has hit on 19 of 60 passes for 175 yards thus far. His top receivers have been end Pete Kliefoth (10 catches, 166 yards) and halfback Bob Mahlock (13 catches, 144 yards). Mahlock has led the running attack with 76 yards in 53 carries.

Fears Pass Attack — Engen said he saw "some good things" for West despite its 36-12 setback against Preble last week, mostly in the line-blocking. But the Hornets passed well against the Terror secondary, and Engen is concerned about the Pats' aerial game.

"We haven't had that good a coverage all year," Engen said, "and they have some real fine ends and a quarterback who throws pretty well."

West's offense has primarily stuck to the ground, but the presence of Dwight Mueller, who took over for the injured Don Hietpas, gives the Terrors a more diversified attack.

Mueller has connected for 12 completions in 25 attempts for 197 yards. Pat Wickesberg and Rick Luebhen have each caught six passes for the year for 97 and 99 yards, respectively.

When the Terrors need important yardage on the ground, they will look for fullback Mark Eggert, who is ninth in the FRVC with 324 yards in 99 attempts.

Winning Run Produces a Controversy

the air close to Martin. First base umpire Lou DiMuro is looking at the bag and Shag Crawford, the home plate umpire, is looking on from near the plate.

In the clubhouse after the game, Richert had said he would like to see a picture of the play. "I don't know if Martin was inside the foul line while running towards first. I tried to throw the ball inside the line."

Bill McKinley, a former American League umpire, saw the picture and commented: "The runner is not out in this case unless he interferes with the throw. If the first base ump is looking at first base as DiMuro is doing it should be up to the home plate umpire to make the call."

There was no comment from Crawford or DiMuro. Neither was there any from Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

Johnny Murphy, vice president and general manager of the Mets, saw the photo and declared "it appears that Martin was a few inches to the left of the foul line. I don't think there's any problem, though. There was no interference."

City-Welfare Program Rejected by Assembly

$10 Million Package Considered

MADISON (AP)—The Assembly rejected Gov. Warren P. Knowles' proposed $33 million urban-welfare program Wednesday night, and very nearly rejected a substitute package whose price tag had doubled to $10 million.

Assemblymen agreed to continue work today on the substitute measure.

It contains many of the items requested by Knowles last month as a supplement to the 1969-71 budget, but with an overall cost less than a third of the governor's request.

There were 34 amendments to the substitute package, and assemblymen turned down many of them.

One of them was a trial balloon to determine the Assembly's attitude toward the Tarr task force's recommendations to reshape formula for sharing tax revenues with municipalities and ease property tax burdens.

The Tarr plan, which got rough sledding in the Senate, could still come up in the Assembly as a bill of its own.

Assemblymen voted 52-45 to reject Knowles' $33 million package, and concentrate on the $10 million substitute.

They turned down even the substitute measure 52-45, then voted to reconsider it today.

The substitute originally included $3.2 million for the Marquette Medical School in Milwaukee, $4 million for language programs and teacher aides in Milwaukee, and other sums for housing and welfare.

An amendment to increase the state's welfare level to 138 per cent of the national average was defeated. The state's outlay level is 120 per cent under the 1969-71 budget.

An amendment proposing $18 million to augment police department budgets was defeated.

Assemblymen also eliminated part of the bill's proposal for restoring state aid to AFDC (aid to families with dependent children).

AFDC Items

The part deleted involves a proposed $250,000 for clothing and other items for AFDC children under 6 years of age.

The substitute bill called for financing through increases in liquor and beer taxes. Assemblymen eliminated a clause under which the first 10,000 barrels of beer would be exempt from the tax increase.

That left the matter with a proposed beer increase of $1 a barrel to twice the current tax rate. The liquor tax would rise to $2.55 a gallon from $2.25.

Assemblymen voted 69-29 against an amendment which would have provided about $28 million for higher school aids through an increase in the inheritance tax and an increase in the beer tax to $3 a barrel.

Assemblyman Frank Nikolav, D-Abbotsford, described the measure as being "in keeping with the philosophy of the Republican party: 'Pull yourself up by your bootstraps.' It just makes sure you'll be at rock bottom when you start pulling."

Assemblyman Kenneth Merkel, R-Brookfield, said the proposed inheritance tax increase would "fly in the face of the free enterprise system. It is confiscatory."

Sinatra Ignores New Jersey Call For His Arrest

FREEMONT, Bahamas (AP)—Frank Sinatra has arrived in the Bahamas for a stay, apparently not heeding an arrest warrant issued for him in an investigation of organized crime in New Jersey.

The warrant, enforceable only in New Jersey, was issued Tuesday at the request of the New Jersey State Investigation Commission.

Sinatra and his retinue arrived Tuesday night and took up residence in an 8-room suite at the Lucayan Beach Hotel. He went yachting Wednesday aboard a chartered boat, then gambled at several casinos.

Killed in Action

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Air Force said Wednesday that Airman I.C. Leland C. Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Orval S. Johnson of Milwaukee, has died in action in Vietnam.

Two Cosmonauts Return to Earth From Soyuz Test

MOSCOW (AP)—Soyuz 6 and the two cosmonauts aboard it returned safely to earth today after testing several types of experimental welding techniques in space, Radio Moscow announced.

The announcement said the first of the three spaceships sent up last weekend made a soft landing in a "preset area" at 12:52 p.m.—5:52 a.m. EDT—10 miles northwest of Karaganda.

The two cosmonauts "feel fine," the announcement said. The return to earth of Soyuz 6 left two manned spaceships and five cosmonauts still in orbit.

The welding experiment was the chief business announced so far for the troika flight. With it the Soviet spacemen sought to determine the best method of putting together the permanent space stations which the Soviets plan to assemble.

Early in the mass flight there had been speculation that two of the Soyuz spaceships would be joined together and left in orbit to become the world's first space platform. But prospects for this declined as the flight progressed, and the return of Soyuz 6 seemed a clear indication that construction of the space platform will wait for another flight.

"The mission of Soyuz has been successfully completed," Moscow Radio said.

The announcer reported that cosmonauts Georgy Shonin and Valery Kubasov were met by rescue teams as soon as they landed.

There was no indication when Soyuz 7 and Soyuz 8 would return to earth.

Left Saturday Soyuz 6 blasted off last Saturday at 2:10 p.m. Moscow time. The flight lasted 4 days, 22 hours and 42 minutes.

The spaceship landed on the steppes of Kazakhstan about 340 miles from the launch site at Baikonur.

The welding was done in a depressurized compartment of the ship in conditions of high vacuum, Tass said.

It was the first time orbiting spacemen have attempted to weld metals together.

Other Ships The other two orbiting spaceships and the five cosmonauts manning them took no part in the welding experiments.

Tass said Valery Kubasov, flight engineer of Soyuz 6, switched on the welding equipment after one compartment of the two-room craft was depressurized, creating conditions similar to those outside the spaceship.

The commander of the ship, Georgy Shonin, remained in the command chamber piloting the spacecraft.

There was no immediate word on the success of the tests, and the techniques employed were not described.

Work in U.S. 3 Bacteriologists Share Nobel Prize

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP)—The 1969 Nobel Prize for physiology and medicine was awarded jointly today to German-born Max Delbrueck of the California Institute of Technology, Alfred D. Hershey of the Carnegie Institute, and Salvador E. Luria of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The American trio of bacteriologists were honored for their discoveries concerning the replication mechanism and the genetic structure of viruses, the faculty of the Caroline Institute said.

The Nobel Prize this year carries a record cash amount of $75,000.

Other Prizes Money for the prizes comes from the will of Alfred Nobel, Swedish inventor of dynamite. Other prizes to come: for literature Oct. 23; for economics, a new award, Oct. 27, for physics and chemistry, Oct. 30. The Nobel Peace Prize award is made in Oslo.

This is the fourth consecutive year that the world's most coveted medical distinction has gone to the United States.

Delbrueck, 63, was born in Berlin, educated at Goettingen and went to the California Institute of Technology at Pasadena on a Rockefeller grant in 1937. He became professor of biology there in 1947.

Salvador Luria was born in Turin, Italy, in 1912. He went to the United States as a research assistant at Columbia University in New York in 1940 and has been professor of microbiology at MIT since 1959.

Born in Michigan Alfred D. Hershey, 60, was born in Lansing, Mich., and went to the Carnegie Institution in 1950. He now heads its genetics department.

"The discoveries for which the award was given first of all imply a deeper insight into the nature of viruses and virus diseases. Indirectly they also bring

Activity in Every State

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

With parades, rallies, candlelight processions and church services, hundreds of thousands of Americans joined in the largest antiwar protest in America's history. Supporters of American policy on Vietnam also demonstrated publicly.

Every state had some form of protest Wednesday and more than one million people, most of ties centered on the moratorium slogan: "Bring home the troops. All the troops. Now!" Many protests included reading the names of war dead.

President Unaffected When it was over, a spokesman for President Nixon said in Washington, "I don't think the President can be affected by a mass demonstration of any kind."

Herbert G. Klein, Nixon's director of communications, said Wednesday night, "It's also true and clear to the President that a vast majority of the American people are supporting his policy."

But a coordinator of the moratorium, Sam Brown, said in Washington, "If there is no change in Vietnam policy, if the President does not respond, there will be a second moratorium."

More Demonstrations Leaders of the protest said they would continue "until the boys come home," with two days of demonstrations next month, three in December, four in January.

The large Eastern cities, traditionally the center of antiwar activity, had the largest turnouts. Boston police estimated 90,000 persons gathered on the Common, while 22,000 assembled at the Washington Monument and New York City had three rallies of more than 10,000 each.

But the scope of the moratorium was reflected across the nation. For example, in Iowa about 11,000 persons protested in various locations; in the State of Washington, an estimated 20,000 took part; in Arkansas, about 4,000 rallied in Little Rock.

Americans abroad and foreign students demonstrated in London, Paris, Rome, Brussels, Vienna, Tokyo, Dublin, Copenhagen and Bogota, Columbia. About 15 infantrymen fighting in South Vietnam wore black armbands to show their support for the protest.

In Oregon, Arkansas and Alaska, governors met with dissidents to hear their grievances.

Alaska Gov. Keith Miller told a high school audience, "If we can honestly discuss our differences of opinion in the open here at home, then our chances to achieve an honorable settlement of the Vietnam war will be greatly enhanced."

Miller said he supported President Nixon's Vietnam policies but thought the moratorium "demonstrates the greatness of America."

The antiwar activity even extended to the World Series in New York, where the Mets beat the Baltimore Orioles after a dispute on whether the flag

American Women Arrive Wednesday at the headquarters of the North Vietnamese delegation to the Paris peace talks to seek news about their husbands and son, U.S. military personnel missing in North Vietnam. From left are Mrs. Sue Shuman, Virginia Beach, Va.; Mrs. Clark Boeckeler, Greensburg, Pa., and Mrs. Martha Doss, also of Virginia Beach.

Wives Talk to N. Vietnamese

Ailing POWs Won't be Freed

PARIS (AP)—The North Vietnamese told two American wives they won't release any American prisoners of war until all U.S. troops leave Vietnam, the wives said Wednesday night.

Sue Shuman and Martha Doss of Virginia Beach, Va., said the North Vietnamese advised them they could speed their husbands' release by demonstrating against the war.

Mrs. Doss and Mrs. Shuman, accompanied by the latter's mother-in-law, Mrs. B. C. Boeckeler, met for an hour and 15 minutes Wednesday with two members of North Vietnam's delegation to the Paris peace talks. They said they came away very disappointed.

"I would never demonstrate against my government," said Mrs. Shuman. "That would dishonor my husband."

Cmdr. Edwin Shuman and Lt. Cmdr. Dale Doss were shot down in North Vietnam and wounded March 17, 1968. Shuman was the pilot and Doss the navigator of a Navy A6 carrier plane.

The two women are returning home Friday.

Three other groups of American wives have visited the North Vietnamese in Paris—two from Texas and one from Oklahoma—but their husbands are all listed as missing, and their first request was whether they are being held prisoner. The North Vietnamese told all of them they would ask Hanoi for information and let the women know what they found out.

The Pentagon on Oct. 1 reported 1,332 U.S. servicemen are missing or have been captured in Vietnam. Of these, 413 are known to be prisoners in the North, about 200 are missing in South Vietnam, and the Defense Department believes many of the rest are prisoners in the North.

North Vietnam has released nine American airmen, including three who were flown from Hanoi in August. In addition, 12 American military men and four civilians have been freed by the Viet Cong in the South.

The U.S. government has tried repeatedly to get lists of prisoners from the North Vietnamese but has been rebuffed in every attempt.

Mourning Period Starts

Assassin Murders Somalia President

MOGADISHU, Somalia (AP)—A five-day period of official mourning began today for assassinated President Abdirashid Ali Shermarke as authorities sought to determine the accused slayer's motives.

Authorities said Yusuf Ismail, the 22-year-old policeman ting out of his car. The 50-year-old Shermarke died instantly.

His body was flown to Mogadishu, the capital, Wednesday night. Today, public offices and shops in the capital were shut down and flags flew at half-staff. Burial was planned for Monday.

Nicilino Mohamed, chief of cabinet in the president's office, said the country's leadership had automatically fallen upon the president of the national assembly, Sheik Muktar Mohamed.

Somali Prime Minister Mohammed H. Ibrahim Egal was on his way back to Mogadishu today from the United States.

A curfew that went into effect after the assassination was lifted at 6 a.m. today.

Mohamed said no extraordinary measures were planned by the 9,000-man Somali army.

"There is no reason for alarm," he said.

He said the policeman's background was being investigated and that there was no indication yet whether the killing was politically motivated.

Shermarke

charged with the killing, acted alone. They said his interrogation was continuing.

Shermarke was shot Wednesday in the northern town of Las Anod, where he had gone to visit drought-stricken tribesmen.

Authorities said Ismail shot Shermarke with his service revolver as the president was get-

'Planning for the Future'

Areas Must Solve Own Problems

OSHKOSH — As the problems of local and regional areas continue to grow, the federal government will increasingly insist that the solutions come from the areas affected.

The changing aspects in the relationships among the federal, state and local governments were outlined Wednesday here by Francis Fisher, Chicago, regional administrator of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD). Fisher spoke to Fox River Valley government officials and citizens gathered at the Pioneer Inn for a public forum titled "Planning for the future of the Fox River Valley."

and sponsored by The Post-Crescent.

The key words in the changing federalism, now called the "New Federalism" by President Nixon, Fisher said, are "decentralization" and "coordination."

Greater Burden

Fisher predicted that in the future a much greater burden of identifying an area's problems and proposing adequate and realistic solutions to the problems will fall on the shoulders of those within the area itself.

The problems of business are in some ways more easily solved than problems of government, Fisher advised the audience, which included many Fox Valley business and industry leaders.

Business tries to "maximize profits" and can, to a large degree, he said, measure the problem and measure what it will take to get increased profits.

Government, however, tries to "maximize lives," he said, and what makes for good lives, good environment and good services are not so easily measured.

Close to People

Therefore, Fisher said, "The country must get down close to the people concerned with any one problem. The government must ask the people themselves for the answers to what will "maximize their lives."

The federal government is currently taking steps to do just that, Fisher explained. Regional offices of the departments and bureaus are being asked to do more work, the states are being asked to do more, and the states, in turn, are increasingly looking toward local governments to help provide needed answers.

President Nixon has asked Congress to establish direct revenue sharing, a means for the federal government to pump money into state and local projects with fewer and fewer strings attached. Fisher predicted that there will be an increasing flow of funds from federal sources to state and local levels under direct revenue sharing.

Decentralization is further seen in Fisher's own department, HUD, where more reliance is being put on local officials to "tell us how it is, and we are insisting that the people be involved in the decisions that so affect their lives."

The need for better coordination of government units, which engage in so many public programs, all interrelated, is increasingly recognized by federal and state officials, Fisher said.

The federal government itself has taken steps to better coordinate the services which is provided. In operation next year will be uniform districts throughout the country for all the departments and bureaus.

The Fox Valley, Fisher said, is an area now experiencing rapid growth and undergoing profound change. What shape that growth and change ultimately will take will depend largely on planning at the area level, he said. And the federal government will insist on it, he added.

The area from Kaukauna through Oshkosh, he said, will soon be designated a standard metropolitan area by the Bureau of the Budget. The bureau's recent circular A-95, he said, gives district planning organizations within such metropolitan areas great power in reviewing applications for federal funds made by local government units.

Goals and Solutions He urged that Wisconsin establish the administrative districts proposed by Governor Warren Knowles.

District planning units must not in the future approach the federal government with a shopping list of what is wanted. Rather, he advised, the problems of housing, transportation, sewage treatment and disposal and a host of others, must be thought out and pinpointed, goals set and solutions be proposed—all at the district or local levels.

Principals in The Post-Crescent's forum on the Fox River Valley gather Wednesday in Oshkosh. Discussing the program are, seated, John B. Torinus, editor of The Post-Crescent, and Francis Fisher, regional administrator of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, and, standing, Warren P. Knowles, who gave the note address, and Dean Rollin University of Wisconsin-Green Bay moderated one of the panel discussions.

"Are We Prepared for the Tasks Ahead?" was the theme Wednesday of a panel discussion at The Post-Crescent's Oshkosh forum on the Fox River Valley. Among the speakers on the panel were Ernest Freund, left, chairman of the Fond du Lac County Board, and Gordon Bubolz, chairman of the Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission. Schedule of Increases

Clintonville Adopts Salary Changes for School Bus Drivers

CLINTONVILLE — A new formula for bus drivers' salaries, which would supplement a base salary with a mileage consideration, was tentatively adopted by the board of education Tuesday night, contingent on the approval of the drivers.

If the method is passed by the drivers, the board will authorize it, retroactive to the beginning of the school year. The motion stipulates that no one will receive less pay than last year.

The new formula, proposed by Supt. V. J. Wadleigh, was adopted after considerable discussion on the present salary schedule, which has been questioned by both the drivers and board members as less than satisfactory.

The present pay scale is: less than 25 miles, $2.70; per route, between 25-35 miles, $4.25; over 35 miles, $4.78; kindergarten,

The school district operates 23 buses with approximately 40 drivers, some who only make one run a day.

More than Budget

It was pointed out that $38,875 had been budgeted for bus drivers' salaries, but because of the addition of an extra bus, the amount under the present schedule was $40,080. If the new formula is authorized, the amount will total $41,373, $2,498 more than the budgeted figure.

In other action, the board accepted the low bid of Standard Oil, for approximately 100,000 gallons of fuel oil to be delivered to Dellwood, senior high and the Bear Creek schools for the season for a firm bid of $1.1902 per gallon with a 10 per cent discount for payment within 10 days.

Resolutions were adopted for temporary borrowing for current operating expenses from the Embarras State Bank and the Marion State Bank, Bear Creek Branch, in the amount of $100,000 each.

Following a discussion on updating insurance coverage on the Bear Creek buildings and contents as recommended by the Mares Insurance Agency, the board voted to increase the total from $520,000 to $580,500, as recommended. The policy on the Bear Creek buildings is due Nov. 1.

A bid of $360 from Martin Brothers, Clintonville, to restore the old Bell Corners property to its original condition was accepted by the board.

A report on the various aspects of the district's financial situation was presented.

Meanwhile, William S. Sirek, VTE-12 director, said the vocational district board has "no objection to the democratic process" permitting the public to express its view of the proposed bond issue. But, Sirek added, the district staff had hoped to avoid "this additional expense to the district," to pay

Clintonville Students To Attend Conference

CLINTONVILLE — Student council officers at the senior high school and their adviser, Principal Burr E. Tolles, will attend the Laird Youth Fellowship Conference at Stevens Point on Oct. 27.

Officers are Tim Nordwig, president; Dan Kelly, vice president; Sue Heideman, secretary, and Kris Erickson, treasurer.

Mayor Beats Wednesday Deadline

Petitions bearing 1,076 signatures and demanding a referendum on the proposed $6 million Fox Valley Technical Institute bond issue were hand-delivered Wednesday afternoon by Appleton Mayor George Buckley.

The mayor turned the petitions over to Robert Schneider, secretary of Vocational, Technical and Adult Education District 12, at Schneider's Hortonville home about 5:20 p.m. on the final day the petitions could be served.

This morning, Buckley issued a statement predicting the vocational board would engage in "nit-picking" to try to disqualify the petitions and avoid a referendum.

Meanwhile, William S. Sirek, VTE-12 director, said the vocational district board has "no objection to the democratic process" permitting the public to express its view of the proposed bond issue. But, Sirek added, the district staff had hoped to avoid "this additional expense to the district," to pay

Plans to combine the jobs of county corporation counsel and family court commissioner came under fire from some Outagamie County Board members Tuesday but no formal action was sought to halt the proceedings.

However, the board's personnel committee, which made the decision to combine the two offices, did some back-tracking and conceded board action would be necessary to make the action formal.

An ad seeking applicants for the combined job has appeared in a number of state newspapers.

The corporation counsel's job is now full time while that of family court commissioner is part time. The county board hires the corporation counsel while the three county judges and circuit judge select the court commissioner.

Authority Challenged Supv. John Schreiter, Appleton, a member of the courts and justice committee, challenged the personnel committee's authority to make a policy change in a job description. Only the entire county board has that authority, he said.

He also charged that attempting to combine the two positions was hurting the county's chances of getting a qualified for a referendum.

Sirek said the validity of the signatures is being checked, and if more than 1,000 are found valid the referendum could be called as early as December. The next vocational board meeting will be on Monday.

Buckley was accompanied to Hortonville by Ralph Gertsch, former Appleton alderman who helped with last-minute efforts to bring the total signatures over the 1,000 legal minimum. At Hortonville they picked up Police Chief Douglas Jones at his home before seeking out Schneider.

Unable to reach Schneider by telephone before leaving Appleton, the mayor had expressed suspicion that the vocational board secretary had "deliberately absented himself" to avoid being served with the petitions.

By statute, the secretary is the only person with whom the petitions may be filed. Finding the secretary at home, Buckley politely turned over the petitions and told Schneider, "If you read any snide comments I might make in the paper tomorrow, just remember they're not directed at you personally. I really think you're a nice guy."

There were Keystone comedy overtones to Buckley's delivery of the documents that may postpone financing and construction of the technical school by the four-county district.

Using Gertsch's car, which contains a citizens' band two-way radio, they called the sheriff's office for the address of Jones to take him along as a witness. Bul, Buckley misunderstood the Nash Street address over the crackling radio as "Main Street."

Unable to find the chief's house, they asked a newspaper boy for directions to the police station, which is housed in one building with the library and volunteer fire department.

Finding nobody there at the past-5 p.m. hour, Buckley cranked the siren on a fire truck, went out when two small boys running to find out why the chief's home.

Man Jailed 20 Days for Beer Fracas

Guilty Plea Entered To Disorderly At Combined

One of several young men involved in a disturbance Oct. 6 at a Combined beer bar Wednesday sentenced to 20 days in jail.

Disorders Spread to High Schools, Official Warns

NEW LONDON — Disorders on college campuses are planned to filter down into the junior and senior high schools.

Donald Dean, assistant superintendent of public instruction, painted a bleak picture for school board members and administrators Monday at an area meeting.

"These groups have one goal — the destruction of traditional values," Dean told the group. An estimated 3,200 people subscribe to the "nihilist" belief in the state, with most of these involved in upper education. Dean estimated 400 of the group are established in high schools.

A nihilist is a person who totally rejects established laws and institutions—schools, government and religion. The name was derived from a 19th Century Russian revolutionary group which often employed terrorism, assassination and other revolutionary tactics to gain its goals.)

Vast Increases

Student unrest situations climbed from seven in 1967-68 to 1,212 the following year, Dean reports. No school is immune, as schools of less than 120 enrollment have been struck.

Carefully planned disruptions are laid by the group. These disruptions began in colleges and are being pushed into junior and senior high schools.

Activists are looking for areas of reaction, feeling that the administration is unable to react to demonstrations. Dean said many administrators will do anything to compromise to avoid serious problems.

Trouble Areas

Dean stated that a survey of five major communities struck by strife point to these trouble areas:

—Faculty members. Teachers

Student Council Selected at Seymour School

SEYMOUR — Student council members have been selected at Central Junior High School and have assumed their duties for the year.

The 20-member group meets as often as deemed necessary to develop good student citizenship, obtain student opinion and create a democratic atmosphere in the school.

Seventh grade members are Mary Ambrosius, Gregg Weninger, Karen Behrent, Scott Zeelick, Cheryl Blohm, Tim Gavronske, Tami Stritzeln, Norbert Jeske, Carrie Hein and Steve Baehler.

Eighth graders on the council are Karen VandenLangenberg, Michael Gericke, Susan Blohm, Terry Lardinois, Chris Klarner, Steve Weninger, Toni Ott, Kenneth Woldt, Bebbie Beilfuss and Jon Stellmacher.

Steve Weninger is president. Baehler, vice president, and Miss Ott, secretary-treasurer.

Robert Clivern, English instructor, is the council adviser.

Milwaukee Man Found Guilty, Gets Probation

WAUPACA — A Milwaukee man pleaded no contest, Wednesday in County Court Branch 1 to the charge of contributing to the delinquency of a 17-year-old boy and was found guilty.

Rueben Hoppe, 39, Milwaukee, was put on 18 months probation and ordered to see a psychiatrist at three month intervals during the probationary period. Hoppe was ordered by Judge Wendell McHenry to pay court costs.

The conviction came as the result of an incident involving a boy in the Town of Matteson on July 5.

Womans Club Sets Arts, Crafts, Clinic At Amherst Junction are in an excellent position to control what goes on in a classroom and can discipline by low grades to create certain thoughts and ideas in students.

—Student activists who use various techniques to gain their means.

—Non-student activists to which most schools unwittingly play host. These include drop-outs, kick outs and troublemakers. They have started a life of fighting the establishment and are set above the rest—students—by being active in school without the threat of school rules being enforced.

—Nihilists who don't want solutions, but seek to destroy the establishment and all traditions.

College Influence

Dean reports all but 27 of the 1,212 student unrest occurrences were immediately after mid-school vacations. Many of these resulted because of the philosophy carried home to high school students from college campuses, he believes.

Areas which easily can be interpreted to determine potential unrest are in-school propaganda (school papers and publications, press relations in the community, division in the faculty, policies, and administrative miscalculations.

Dean suggested schools should make plans for student unrest prevention by checking policies, reviewing the doctrine of permissiveness—not only student but teacher, retain the right to administer the school, develop good public relations, and be frank in discussions with parents.

One-Day Bargain Shop to Operate At Clintonville

CLINTONVILLE — The Nifty Thrifty shop, featuring good used clothing and household articles, will open its doors to the public at 9 a.m. Oct. 24 at Christ Congregational Church, Main Street at Eighth Place.

The headquarters of this one-day business and bargain venture will be in the church basement where members of the Women's Christian Fellowship will serve as proprietors. Those in charge are Mrs. Ward Winchester, Mrs. L. P. Pelishek and Mrs. Vernie Starks.

Those who wish to contribute to the shop's stock should contact Mrs. Winchester or Mrs. Francis Thompson for pick-up service.

The shop will be open to the entire community.

Brillion Junior Team To Play at Half-Time

BRILLION — The public school seventh and eighth grade football team will play an intersquad game during half-time at the Brillion-Shiocton game here Friday.

Coaches for these teams are Richard Edwards and Glen Seering.

Brillion Legion Auxiliary Honors Past Presidents

BRILLION — Mrs. Arthur J. Neumeyer and Miss Mabel Luecker received 50-year membership citations during the American Legion Auxiliary's annual past-presidents banquet here.

Mrs. Otto Bartz and Mrs. Joseph Schwaller will also receive the citation, but were unable to attend.

Past-presidents honored were Mrs. Elmer Krueger, Mrs. Louis Hulbregtse, Mrs. Arthur Lau, Mrs. Henry Horn Sr., Mrs. Robert Goldschmidt, Mrs. Delbert Lau, Mrs. Peter Denor, Mrs. Fred Bloedorn, Mrs. Wilbert Behnke, Mrs. Florian Pfeiffer, Vera Bloedorn and Mrs. John Saubert.

Gold-star mothers Mrs. Harold Jensen and Mrs. Harvey Heimke and 10 honorary members also were recognized.

Auxiliary officers who attended were Mrs. Paul Doerfler, Kimberly, department Americanism chairman, Mrs. Norman Koehler, Oshkosh, 6th district president, and Mrs. Lloyd Habermann, Brillion, state president.

Junior auxiliary members also attended the event.

Junior Hunter Safety Course Set for Youth

CLINTONVILLE — Young people interested in hunting and recreational shooting are invited to enroll in a Wisconsin Hunter Safety Course and Junior Rifle Club to be conducted from 3:45 to 5:45 p.m. beginning Monday at the junior high school.

Students passing the written and performance test will be eligible to use live ammunition.

Rey R. Laske, a certified hunter safety instructor, will conduct the course. Laske has completed requirements for certification established by the National Rifle Association and the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources. Other instructors will be M. M. Bodoh, James Schwenner, Jay Sharp, Robert McLeod, F. M. Marshak, Elmer List and Jack Kunath.

For Young People

Students who enroll must be at least 12 years old by the date of the final lesson. There is no maximum age, although the course is designed primarily for persons up to age 16.

There will be four two-hour classes, to be given Mondays from 3:45 to 5:45 p.m. The fee of $2.50 covers all materials except firearms. Advance registrations are requested as the course size is limited. The Junior Rifle Club fee is 50 cents.

Upon successful completion of the course, students will receive arm patches and certificates. Under state law, they will be entitled to hunt and use firearms at age 14, unaccompanied by a parent or guardian as would otherwise be required up to age 16. Any student may continue in the Junior Rifle Club program.

Subjects Covered

Classes will cover gun handling, firearms safety at home and in the field, care of firearms, marksmanship, and the responsibilities of hunters and shooters. There will be dry firing with actual firearms. No guns or ammunition are to be brought to any of the sessions. Ammunition may be purchased at the Armory.

Additional information about the program may be obtained by contacting the principal at the junior high school office.

New London Women Have Discussion on Hearing Impairment

NEW LONDON — "The Significance of Hearing Impairment" was the title of a presentation by Margaret Fitzgerald, Milwaukee, at Monday's Women's Club meeting here at the Ormond Capener home.

Doris Hartquist was named scrapbook chairman and Arlene Johnson, Virginia Krostue and Dorie Polzin were named to the finance committee.

The club was invited to a "Sex and Sensitivity Training Seminar" Oct. 30 being sponsored by the Clintonville Junior Women's Club.

Clintonville to Observe Club's 60th Birthday

CLINTONVILLE — The Woman's Club here will celebrate its 60th anniversary at a 6:30 p.m. dinner meeting Tuesday at the St. Rose Catholic School hall.

The past and present 50-year members also will be honored. The guest speaker will be Mrs. Earle Sievwright, Stevens Point, president of the 7th District, Wisconsin Federation of Women's Clubs.

Members of the decoration committee for the meeting are Mrs. Gordon Rindt, Mrs. E. K. Bard and Mrs. Jack Kelly. Reservations are being taken by the club's telephone committee.

The 7th District fall board meeting was Oct. 9 at Bonduel. Members of the local club who attended were Mrs. Donald Christensen, president; Mrs. Harold Danner, vice president; Mrs. Myron Marshak, Mrs. George McCauley and Mrs. Earl Belton, and from the Junior Woman's Club, Mrs. Donald Pringnitz, president, Mrs. Paul Kiefer and Mrs. Jay Sharp.

Mrs. McCauley, state chairman of the fine arts department, introduced Mrs. Belton, who was given recognition for her poetry award. The mid-winter board meeting will be at Marion.

Clintonville Seniors Students Are Apply Early

CLINTONVILLE — Seniors at the senior high school here are being encouraged to make financial aids application early, according to Allen Mattson, guidance director.

On Tuesday, Mattson visited the senior English classrooms to speak with students planning some form of post-high school education. Emphasis was placed on types of financial aid available, application procedures, and the importance of an early application.

The application for financial aid is being accepted by nearly all colleges, universities and vocational schools in Wisconsin. Of specific interest is that students enrolled in one year vocational school programs are eligible for aid for the first time this year. Also new is that only one financial aid offer will be
